GARFIELD CALLED IN STRIKE CRISIS

55,000 REFUSED BONUS

State Treasurer and the Attorney-General Will Hear Complaints

Fifty-five thousand applications for the $100 State bonus have been turned down by the State Treasurer's department, it was announced today.

Of that number, 5,000 were rejected on the ground that the applicants were not residents of the State for six months prior to their entry into the service. The State Treasurer and the Attorney-General today established themselves as a board of appeal to hear the claims of applicants who may believe they can establish that they actually were residents.

Applications to the board must be made within thirty days of the receipt of the notice of rejection.

Scores of nurses in army service have already filed their protests. They claim that while their professional work had carried them to other States, they had maintained permanent residence in Massachusetts at least six months before war was declared.

Sugar Pours Into Hub But Shortage Is Not Relieved

The arrival here today of the steamer Lake Winthrop with 6,030,000 pounds of crude sugar from Palo Alto, Cuba, brought the total sugar receipts of the port since October 5 up to 49,861,120 pounds. Eight cargoes have reached here since October 4 with this vast amount of sugar, which, however, has done nothing, apparently, towards relieving the local sugar shortage.

Three more big sugar cargoes are due here next week, the Thelma with 4,229,660 pounds, the Corrales with 6,344,000 pounds and the Lake Lillouson with 7,400,000 pounds, a total of 17,973,660 pounds.

In the month ending November 5 the sugar receipts will total 67,834,780 pounds.

'SUGAR CZARS' TO UNDERGO PROBE

Boston Men of National Board Must Answer Alleged "Autocratic Distribution Methods

Dwight P. Thomas and Woodward K. Greene, who as local representatives of the National Sugar Equalization Board have been the "sugar czars" of Massachusetts, are to be forced to give a public accounting of their stewardship.

General John J. Sherburne, chairman of the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life, today instructed them to submit to his body a complete report of their methods of distribution, and to continue to so report during their tenure of office.

General Sherburne is vested with authority to compel them to report, it is understood. The order is considered in the light of a victory for the State agencies which have been offended by the alleged autocratic measures of the Sugar Equalization Board.

Mr. Thomas is of the Revere Sugar Refinery, and Mr. Greene of the American Sugar Refinery. Members of the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life charged that they exceeded their authority and refused to let the commission or the public know of their distribution methods.

General Sherburne issued his order following a conference with Federal authorities in New York.

His statement follows: "This action was taken after waiting several days for the Federal authorities to make a decision and because of constantly increasing complaints.

"The commission intends to act entirely in co-operation with the refiners' committee, and intends to supervise the distribution of sugar from jobber and wholesaler to retailer to assure equality of distribution and compliance with the rules made by the Federal authorities.

"The commission will require full statistics as to production and distribution on the part of the wholesalers, so that it will be in a position to point out any inequality."

It was announced at headquarters in the State House today that John F. Stevens of Boston, former member of the Massachusetts Food Administration, had given his services to the commission. He will establish an office in the State House, and handle exclusively problems growing out of the sugar shortage.

TO PUNISH GOUGERS OF RENT

Prosecution of 300 Chelsea Profiteers Planned, Following Exposure by Mayor Breath

Criminal prosecution of an alleged combination of 300 Chelsea rent profiteers is contemplated by the State Commission on the Necessaries of Life, it was stated today.

This statement followed the charge made by Mayor Melvin B. Breath before the Chelsea Board of Aldermen that such a combination exists and that a member of the local Board of Assessors was one of the chief offenders.

Agents of the commission made a hurried visit to Chelsea today in a final effort to clean up evidence before it was destroyed, word of their activities having reached the alleged profiteers.

Wendell D. Howie, secretary of the commission, stated that if this evidence proved to be satisfactory, criminal proceedings against the members of the alleged combination would begin immediately.

Mr. Howie and John D. Willard of the commission were the two men who have been investigating the existence of this so-called combination, which is said to be the most powerful association of its kind in the history of local affairs.

TENANTS EVICTED.

According to reports, this combination, consisting of real estate operators and owners, has been accustomed to holding secret meetings, at which they agreed on rents and increases.

It was said that the members also agreed to make no repairs for certain periods, and fines were imposed on those who violated the agreements.

It was also reported that the com-

OBSERVER CLAIMS CANAL HAS HURT HIS BUSINESS

The hearing of the United States government against the New York-Boston Canal Company, at which the government hopes to establish a purchasing price for the Cape Cod Canal lower than that asked by the private owners, was resumed today before Judge James M. Nickerson, a marine observer at Chatham, declared that he had lost a number of patrons as the result of vessels using the canal and no longer passing Chatham.

Holcomb Denies He Askedfor National Guard Units

In the controversy between Governor Holcomb of Connecticut and Colonel W. F. Martin, in charge of militia affairs at army headquarters, over accepting the National Guard for that State, the Governor denies he ever said he wanted the National Guard to replace the State Guard.

Some one sent a request from the office of the adjutant-general at Hartford to the adjutant-general of the army, asking permission to organize National Guards in accordance with the National Public Defence Act.

Adjutant-General Harris at Washington gave the permission. Colonel Martin says he received a letter, dated October 17, 1919, stating that Connecticut was allowed to go ahead to form the units.

Governor Holcomb says he cannot find out who sent the letters. He declines to accept the National Guard.

HARD COAL GOES UP TWENTY-FIVE CENTS A TON

An increase of twenty-five cents per ton in the price of anthracite coal has gone into effect in Greater Boston.

With a soft coal strike set for November 1, Boston was today greeted with the news that, with the exception of screenings, hard coal would cost a quarter of a dollar more per ton.

Increased tug boat rate are given as the cause for the increase in the retail price.

With few exceptions, the following are the prices which the consumer will now pay for anthracite coal:

Pea, $10.75 per ton.
Egg, stove, nut, $12.75.
Furnace, $12.00

R. R. WORKERS VOTE TO ACT AS SINGLE UNION

The administration at Washington today took direct action in the coal strike crisis by summoning Dr. Harry A. Garfield, former fuel administrator, to the White House. It was believed that Dr. Garfield was called with a view to revive the fuel administration in the event of a coal strike, which labor leaders declare to be inevitable.

Drastic action by the government, such as temporary control of mines, or overtures from the operators were said to be the only possibilities of averting the strike. This prediction was made by officials of the United Mine Workers of America as they went into conference to frame a reply to the President's plea to call off the strike order.

The question of a general railroad strike, involving 2,000,000 rail workers, hinges on the reply of the director-general of railways to the representatives of the workers today. It was announced that the fourteen different unions which comprise virtually all the rail workers in the country have banded together and will act as one big union in this crisis.

If their demands for increased wages and better conditions are rejected, they will meet tonight with the four brotherhoods to map out plans for future procedure. The special committee of sixteen which presented the demands is said to have the authority to call a strike of the brotherhoods. The other affiliated organizations, it was said, will follow suit.

DAILY BULLETIN ABOUT WILSON SUSPENDED

Washington, Oct. 29.—The President's condition has reached a point where it is no longer necessary to issue bulletins as to his health, Dr. Grayson stated this afternoon.

After a conference between Dr. Grayson and Secretary Tumulty the following statement was issued this afternoon at the White House:

"The President's improvement steadily continues. He is eating, sleeping, digesting and assimilating well. His present improvement has now reached a point where it is not considered necessary to issue daily bulletins. The people of the country will be promptly advised of any change in his condition."

The statement was signed by Drs. Grayson, Ruffin and Stitt. Dr. Grayson stated that he wished to impress upon the public, however, that the President's recovery would be very slow. He stated that the step taken did not indicate any radical improvement, but that his improvement continued slowly from day to day, and bulletins would not vary. Dr. Grayson made it plain that the President is not entirely out of danger yet.

CREW DESERTS STEAMSHIP BOGOSA

Sailors Claim Wooden Craft of Shipping Board Is Unseaworthy

Declaring the United States Shipping Board wooden steamship Bogosa to be unseaworthy, a large part of the crew deserted when the craft put into this port today in distress.

This was the second desertion since the steamer left Mobile, Alabama, on September 21, bound for London with a cargo of lumber, both in the hold and on deck.

Captain Lidents, master of the ship, declared that he would attempt to secure more men and another engineer here, and resume his voyage.

The Bogosa, a wooden ship of the type first constructed for the Emergency Fleet Corporation, encountered trouble a short distance out of Mobile. The deck load slipped, causing the craft to list, and machinery defects developed. The course was altered and the Bogosa put into Norfolk, where a number of the crew left. They maintained that the deck load made the steamer top heavy.

New men were signed up and the cruise continued, but a few days later a pump supplying water to one of the boilers became affected. Captain Lidents then put into Boston and lost the larger part of the crew. He is also short one engineer.

HOOVER THINKS SUGAR FAMINE NEAR END

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Sugar consumption in the United States has increased 250,000 tons a year as a result of the country's going dry, asserted Herbert Hoover, former food administrator, in testifying today before the House committee investigating War Department expenditures in foreign countries.

As a result of this unexpected demand the country faces a minor temporary shortage of sugar, Hoover continued, although the available supply for the next two months is larger than the last.

POWER TO END COAL STRIKE IN HANDS OF 84 UNION LEADERS

OFFICIALS CLAIM 500,000 ARE READY TO QUIT

United Mine Workers gathered to frame a reply to President Wilson's plea that the strike order be recalled.

John L. Lewis, acting president of the miners' organization; William Greene, the secretary; the executive council of 25, presidents of twenty-five district organizations and thirty-two members of the scale committee comprise the body upon which rested the decision as to whether the nation would be plunged into one of the greatest labor struggles it has ever known.

STRIKE ORDERS ARE OUT.

The strike order is in the hands of union miners in every part of the country and only a recall from the conference here today can stay the walkout.

Miners' officials predict that more than five hundred thousand would be involved, many unorganized workers joining the four hundred thousand union miners of the bituminous coal fields.

Despite the optimism expressed in government circles that the strike might yet be averted, this feeling was not apparent among miners' officials as they convened to make their final stand. Reluctant to "prejudice the conference," the conferees talked sparingly of any hopes they might entertain of an eleventh hour adjustment of the wage controversy.

"The attitude of the President on the prohibition enforcement law expresses the sentiment of the miners in regard to our demands," said Mr. Lewis, who arrived late yesterday from Springeld, Ill. "The war emergency has passed and with it has passed our wage agreement."

The miners' executive reiterated statements that the miners were willing up to the last minute to meet the operators "without reservations."

Temporary government control of mines or overtures from operators to open negotiations for an agreement, appeared before the conference opened to be the only hope of averting the strike. Leaders declared that operators had made no advances that would pave the way for a settlement. Neither had any communication been received from official Washington.

Scores of telegrams are piled up on Mr. Lewis' desk from miners' officials urging that international officers "stand pat" and "not to budge." Practically all of the messages, it was said, contained pledges of support in the stand for strike.

Along with these were many telegrams indicating that the public is apprehensive, messages from men of national prominence who "hope the strike might be averted." Mr. Lewis declined to say who these persons are.

That the miners are receptive to government operations was indicated by a number of the conferees.

Railroad Administration Takes All Lignite Coal, Says Colorado Report

Denver, Colo., Oct. 29.—The United States Railroad Administration has commandeered all lignite coal mined in Colorado from today until next Saturday, the date of the threatened nation-wide coal strike. This was necessary in order that railroads in the Rocky Mountains region might be assured of sufficient fuel to operate trains, it was officially stated.

The order does not affect the bituminous and anthracite producing fields of southern and western Colorado.

Efforts were being continued today by State and civic authorities to prevent a shut-down on the mines if the strike goes into effect. It is believed, however, that the men will abide by the order of the international officers and cease work on Nov. 1.

Reports from Cheyenne indicate that the seven thousand coal miners in Wyoming will obey the strike order.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Officials of the Railroad Administration today denied reports that the government has commandeered lignite coal in Colorado. At the Bureau of Mines it was stated there was no information of such action, and it was stated that the only government organization with power to commandeer coal is the Railroad Administration.

Garfield Called to White House; Report Plan to Revive Fuel Regulations

Washington, Oct. 29.—Dr. Harry A. Garfield, former fuel administrator, appeared at the White House today.

"I have been sent for," said Garfield," and I have been keeping in touch with the coal situation."

Further than that he would not talk. He went in to conference with Secretary Tumulty and it was generally believed that he had been sent for in order to arrange for reviving the fuel administration in the event of a coal strike.

Dr. Garfield drew up the contract with the miners, under which they agreed to work until the end of the war or April, 1920, and it was understood that he was also to discuss this contract. It was stated that statements by miners that the President has virtually recognized the end of the war by his veto message on wartime prohibition do not hold. It was pointed out that the purposes of the wartime prohibition act have been accomplished by demobilization, while wartime industrial conditions still prevail.

SAYS WIFE HAS ONE HUSBAND TOO MANY

Walker Francis Russell told Judge Hammond, in the divorce session of Suffolk Superior Court today that he had been deceived in his marriage to Marian Emma Sherer. He was a sergeant in the Twenty-sixth Division, and on June 3, 1917, in Waterbury, Conn., where he was engaged in engineering work, he married the Sherer woman. The first Sunday they spent in his mother's house in Medford, he told the court, two men came to see his wife. His mother told him that one was his supposed wife's husband. Later, he said, she admitted that she had been married to Benjamin Sherer of Boston on January 25, 1917. He petitions the court for annulment.

Holts Lose Control of B. & A. Office After 60 Years

With the resignation of Warner H. Holt of Newton Centre as paymaster of the Boston & Albany railroad, control of the office passes from the Holt family, after sixty years of service. Mr. Holt's resignation takes effect Friday night. He will be succeeded by George H. Lucas.

Since the road was formed, in 1859, there has been a Holt as paymaster. The late Albert Holt, father of the present incumbent, was the first. He served from 1859 to 1901, and was succeeded by Warner Holt.

The Holts moved from Springfield when the offices of the Boston & Albany were brought to this city. When Albert Holt distributed the first monthly pay roll it amounted to $28,000. His son's last payroll will be in excess of $1,000,000.

Warner Holt was paymaster of the road for eighteen years and has been thirty-nine years in the service of the company. Mr. Lucas is a native of Springfield and has been living in West Springfield. He has been with the Boston & Albany since 1882.

RAILROAD MEN UNITED FOR DEMANDS

Washington, Oct. 29.—The railroad workers of the United States will present a united front to the Director-General of Railways when their representatives meet him late this afternoon to get an answer to their demands for increased wages and better conditions.

It was announced today that the fourteen different unions which comprise virtually all the rail workers in the country have banded together and will act as one big union in this crisis.

In the event their demands are rejected by Director-General Hines, the unions will meet tonight with the four brotherhoods to map out plans for future procedure.

Whatever the answer is, the other railroad organizations which have presented demands will take it as an indication of what they may expect. If it is unsatisfactory the heads of the four big railroad brotherhoods, officers of the fourteen railroad organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and other railroad representatives gathered in Washington will decide on general action at a meeting tonight.

The special committee of sixteen, which presented the demands of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen is on hand, together with W. G. Lee, president of the organization, and the six vice-presidents of the brotherhood. The special committee has authority to call a strike of the 190,000 members of the brotherhood in event of an unsatisfactory answer.

The director-general of railroads informed each organization when it presented demands that if wage increases were granted in the case of one they would be granted to all, and its answer to the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and Brotherhood of Railroad Conductors will be taken as interpretation of its attitude towards the others.

According to officials the sentiment in each organization is 100 per cent. in favor of a strike if demands are not granted in full. The leaders claim that the government's failure to make good on its promise to reduce the cost of living makes it impossible to hold the men in check any longer.

FATE OF LONG IN HANDS OF JURY

Defence Springs Surprise by Resting After Presenting Only 12 Witnesses

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 29.—The case of George A. Long, charged with the murder of Mrs. Lucina C. Broadwell of Barre, went to the jury today, the defence springing a surprise by resting its case after presenting but twelve witnesses.

None of them provided an alibi for Long. The attorney-general waived examination of the defendant's witnesses in most instances, and asked but few questions in the others.

Although there had been rumors that the defence would spring a surprise, the sudden ending of the case for the defence caused a sensation.

As soon as Judge Butler had taken his place on the bench, Attorney Carver, senior counsel for the defence, announced that the defence rested. The attorney-general stated that the government would offer no rebuttal.

"You may begin the closing arguments," said Judge Butler. States Attorney Earl R. Davis then addressed the jury.

He briefly outlined the discovery of Mrs. Broadwell's body. "Put yourselves in the place of the witnesses who made this awful discovery. Here was the body of a woman, lying naked in the Wheelock garden, her hands were tied behind her, and about her neck was the fatal handkerchief. The autopsy disclosed all the classic marks of strangulation.

"I wish to call your attention to the evidence regarding an indentation in the ground, which the defence attempts to make appear the result of the body having been dragged. You will recall, in connection with this, that not one witness had seen a single footprint. How could the body have possibly been dragged over that ground where no grass was growing without footprints being plainly evident."

McKNIGHT IN COURT, ARGUES OWN APPEAL

Dr. Harmon P. Dr. McKnight, who has been in jail since last December, was his own counsel during his trial on the charge of attempting to secure property in Maine said to have been owned by the late John Cassidy, Bangor millionaire. McKnight today argued that if he has no legal right to the property he should have been tried in Maine.

10-CENT FARE GRANTED FOR MIDDLESEX ROAD

The Middlesex & Boston Street Railway was today authorised by the Public Service Commission to establish a ten-cent fare on all its lines. The new rate will become effective November 1, provided the company accepts it and gives adequate notice to its patrons.

NARRROW GAUGE PLEADS FOR FARE RAISE

Would Sell Book of 20 Tickets for $1.75 and Charge Others 10 Cents a Trip

In the presence of a roomful of remonstrants, President Melvin O. Adams of the Boston, Revere Beach & Lynn Railroad today began his appeal to the Public Service Commission for authority to increase the fares from seven cents to eight and three-quarters and ten cents.

The Narrow Guage now charges seven cents on all lines. It wants to issue a book of twenty tickets for $1.75 and to collect a fare of ten cents from all patrons who don't invest the $1.75 in tickets.

Protestants from Lynn, Revere, Winthrop, East Boston and other communities served by the "little railroad" waited patiently to begin their attack on the fares boost.

"The present increase is needed," said Mr. Adams, "to meet the advance in operating costs and to maintain the credit of the road.

"When we asked for the last increase, we expected to add about $186,000 to the wages paid our employes. Instead we paid out $223,000. The increase in the cost of our coal, we thought, would be $105,000. It proved to be $130,000. I give these figures to show that we were acting in good faith and that we were not not exaggeratin gthen in forecasting increasing expenses. We are making our present claims on the same conservative scale."

Mr. Adams attributed a part of the increased operating expenses to the fact that, through taxaion, he road is called upon to meet the revenue deficiency of the Boston Elevated.

"Despite this, howver," he continue, "we, another transportation company, will be giving service at a lower cost than any of those roads ever should the public be called upon to pay the fares we ask."

He said that the road is economically managed and that the capitalization on which dividends are paid, $850,000, is incomparably lower than the capital stock of the Elevated and other competing roads. On the prices at which the stock was issued, he said, it is not paying a dividend of more than 3½ to 4½ per cent.

He said that the road now has bonds outstanding to the amount of $1,000,000 for which it is paying 4½ per cent, "as low a rate of interest as can be secured by the State of Massachusetts, with all of its resources behind it." Patrons, he held, are getting the benefit of this today.

Mr. Adams said he did not believe that any great loss of patronage would come about as a result of an increase in fares, as a decrease of only 4 per cent. was felt when the last increase was authorised.

"The principles under which his company desired to conduct business," he said, "are fair treatmen to its employes, fair treatment to the public and fair treatment to the investors financing it."

SISTER SAVES TWENTY CHILDREN FROM FIRE

New York, Oct. 29.—Due to the coolheadedness and bravery of Sister Charles of the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin at Mount Loretto, Staten Island, twenty children were saved from death by fire or suffocation early today. A two-story frame building, 100 feet square, used by the mission and St. Elizabeth's Convent nearby as a quarantine hospital, caught fire when all the occupants were asleep.

Sister Charles, in charge, was awakened when she was almost overcome by thick smoke. She gave an alarm, and then rushed to the second floor, where twenty children were asleep. After awakening them, she calmed their fears, formed them in line and marched them safely from the building.

Previously nearly 1,600 boys and girls were marched from their dormitories and were housed in another building until all danger had passed.

British Labor Calls for a Levy on Big Capital

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 29.—Two of the chief features in the great two days' financial debate which began in Parliament today are:

Labor's demand for a levy on capital;

The demand that the Lloyd-George government announce definite proposals for stabilizing exchange rates.

The budget figures show that the nation is facing even a greater debt within the next year than exists at present. Although other nations owe Great Britain $10,000,000,000, they, too, are hard pressed by financial difficulties.

The Globe, which is close to Lord Robert Cecil, states that Lord Robert has begun a campaign in his own behalf for the premiership, if the present government retires.

According to the Globe, the Premier is working towards an alliance with the Labor party in the fear that the Unionists will desert him because of his consideration for labor's demand for joint management of the railways.

bination maintained a blacklist against certain tenants who proved "refractory" and complained to the authorities. These tenants were evicted as soon as possible and were not permitted to rent any house controlled by members of the combination.

Information regarding the existence of the combination was said to have been secured by Mayor Breath and Chelsea city officials some days ago. They planned to move against the profiteers by imposing increased assessed valuations. It was pointed out to them by the commission's agents, however, that this would merely result in further raising of rents, thereby creating a vicious circle.

ASSESSOR NAMED.

In a communication to the Board of Aldermen, Mayor Breath called attention to an organized effort to "corral" property for purely rent-profiteering purposes. He declared that "one of the members of the Board of Assessors has been one of the chief offenders, inasmuch as while he has increased the rents of his property there was no added valuation placed upon it, and I am further informed that he has also resorted to the despicable practice of influencing other property owners to join with him in the rent-raising campaign."

Mayor Breath stated that because of this condition "I have decided to appoint two committees, one to be known as the 'fair price committee' and the other as the 'rent profiteering committee,' which shall carefully investigate every case brought to their attention." The latter was to report every case of alleged rent profiteering before April 1, 1920.

Mr. Howie said today: "We have been conducting a quiet investigation for several days and have conferred with Mayor Breath and city officials of Chelsea. Somebody leaked. Whether a report of our activities reached some of the members of the alleged combination, I don't know, but we do contemplate criminal prosecution of the members of this alleged association. We have also had reports of alleged rent combinations in Holyoke, Somerville and other cities. All will be investigated. If ample evidence is secured criminal prosecutions will be brought under the Conspiracy Act of the last session of the Legislature."

EIGHTH ARREST IN BOMB PLOT EXPECTED

One Woman Arrested, Another Hunted; Six Men Caught in Cleveland Raid

Cleveland, Oct. 29.—With seven persons under arrest—one of them a woman—Cleveland police this afternoon were searching for another woman believed to know the details of the bombing of Mayor Harry L. Davis' home here last June.

The round-up, started last midnight, is the beginning of a national clean-up which may result in the arrest of the whole membership of the band of terrorists who last June attempted the lives of eight prominent men in as many cities throughout the country, Boston included.

Names of three men under arrest here are withheld by the police, and it is reported that one of them may be the man who actually planted the bomb which wrecked Mayor Davis' home here. Arrest of the woman now being sought is expected to clear up the local outrage.

"We believe these arrests will open the trail to the most dangerous anarchistic circles in the country that has been at work in more than 100 cities throughout the country," declared Police Captain Martin Lavelle, who has spent all of his time since last June in running down the bombers.

Information which brought about the arrests last night came from Chicago. According to the "tip," the Central Police Station here was to be blown up as the officers assembled for rollcall in the evening.

It was to have been an inside job, one of the members of the gang planning to seek a position on the force in order to plant the bomb. Additional information secured by Captain Lavelle and his assistants indicated that the gang was planning a widespread bomb attack for next Spring.

Police believe that one of the six men arrested here was directly concerned in the bombing of the home of Mayor Davis, and another participant in this particular outrage is expected to be arrested in the East within a day or two.

Theodore Leover and Steve Mateika, two of the men in custody here, were arrested by a squad of officers as they came from an old barn, which, the police say, was their bomb factory. One finished bomb, a timing clock for electrical devices, and enough nitroglycerine to blow up the largest building in the city, were found in the "factory," in addition to revolvers and ammunition.

"We were making fireworks," the two men told the police when seized.

The completed bomb found was identical in type with that used to blow up Mayor Davis' home, according to the police bomb experts. Raids on the quarters of the two men brought to light additional bomb-making paraphernalia, additional revolvers and a whiskey still.

The four other men and the woman were arrested at widely-separated points in the city, and their identity withheld by the police pending further investigation. A quantity of anarchistic literature was found in the possession of one of these men, and his arrest, which followed an all night search is regarded as the most important of all.

Homes of Judge Hayden and Representative Powers Among Those Dynamited

The homes of Judge Albert F. Hayden at No. 11 Wayne street, Roxbury, and State Representative Leland W. Powers, No. 66 Beaumont street, Newtonville, were dynamited within forty-five minutes of each other, on the night of June 2.

Both dwellings were wrecked by explosives, and in both instances human beings narrowly escaped injury, if not death.

The outrage at the home of Judge Hayden, two blocks from Franklin Park, took place at 11:35 o'clock and was felt within a radius of two miles. Judge Hayden and his family, with the exception of a son, Malcolm, were at their Summer home in Plymouth. Malcolm was walking up Wayne street on his way home when the explosion took place. Had he been two minutes earlier he would have been in the house.

The front and sides of the structure were completely wrecked, every window was shattered, and holes were blown in the roof. Furnishings inside were demolished. The windows of nearby houses were broken, and several children were cut by flying glass.

Investigation disclosed the fact that the bomb, a length of wrought iron pipe about two and a half inches in diameter, and similar to that used at the home of Attorney-General Palmer, was placed in the centre of the piazza. Judge Hayden had presided at the trial in the Roxbury Court of the May Day rioters.

Representative Powers, his two children and two servants were asleep at the time his home was dynamited. Two holes were blown in the side of the house and four-and-a-half-year old Polly Powers was slightly cut in the face from flying glass. Representative Powers was concerned in legal matters relative to anarchy.

LEVENSON ASKED BROTHER TO TRAIL HIS WIFE IN NEW YORK

ROW OVER $60,000 TOLD

Mrs. Levenson Demanded Terry Give Her a Share, Says Love Suit Witness

Pittsfield, Oct. 29.—Asked by his brother, the plaintiff, to shadow his wife, Mrs. Helen Levenson, Jacob Levenson, a shipbroker, testified today in the $75,000 alienation suit of Morris Levenson against Raymond M. Terry, that he had twice seen Mrs. Levenson and Terry going into the apartments at No. 119 West Seventy-first street, New York.

He said Terry and the latter's sister formerly lived at that address. He had also on two occasions seen Terry and Mrs. Levenson riding together in an automobile, he said.

Letters written by Merry in Great Barrington to Mrs. Levenson in New York were read in court today. One of these, addressed to "Miss Ted Thomas, Hargrave Hotel, New York," under the date of June 29 last, began "My darling," and mentioned Miss Engs, a society girl of Great Barrington and New York.

TWO LETTERS READ.

"I am so lonely without you," read the latter. "I can't stand it much longer. With all the love and in the world, Raymond."

Under date of July 3, he wrote:

"You can't realize how much I love you; how I live for you. I don't see why you are not to be here on the fourth. I will be so lonely. You had better hurry and come up here. Friends of Miss Engs have just called. I lost $9,000 between June 19 and date."

This letter ended: "I love you, dear, yours, Ray."

A telegram telling Mrs. Levenson to call at the Western Union for a remittance was also introduced in evidence.

Charles H. Wright, former counsellor and now Republican candidate for District Attorney, testified that he was counsel for Mrs. Levenson after she had been ordered out of Terry's bungalow in Great Barrington. Terry, Mrs. Levenson and Wright held a conference in Pittsfield, he said, at which Mrs. Levenson said to Terry: "I don't want any of your dirty money. All I want of you is what I am entitled to."

Witness said Mrs. Levenson claimed a one-third interest in Wall street stock transactions, which she said amounted to $60,000.

CALLED HIM NO GOOD.

Witness admitted saying to Terry, "You are no damn good, or you wouldn't talk that way to a woman."

Attorney Marks, for the plaintiff, read depositions from employes of the apartments occupied by the Levensons and those occupied by Terry and his sister.

Martin J. Ford of Terry's apartment house, stated that Mrs. Levenson was known ther as "Miss Ted Thomas." She was accompanied, he said, by a woman, whom she introduced as her sister, and called Charlotte.

Charlotte is the name of the Levenson's daughter, who is about the same size as her mother.

Eugene Sousanitis, night clerk of the Hargrave apartments, where the Levensons lived, said that on at least three occasions he had seen Terry and Mrs. Levenson in the lobby of the hotel together.

PRATTS IN ROW OVER THEIR CHILDREN

Mother, Mrs. Gibson, Asks to Take Them From New York City

New York, Oct. 29. — Alexander Dallas Bache Pratt and his former wife, now Mrs. Preston Gibson, have appealed to the Supreme Court to settle a controversy about their two children. Mrs. Gibson wants permission to take them to Newport and to Washington, D. C., as occasion may require, and Mr. Pratt asks the court to give him permission to visit them at reasonable times, and assurance that they will not be taken to Europe.

Former Governor Whitman appeared before Justice Giegerich for Mrs. Pratt-Gibson, and declared positively that Mrs. Pratt-Gibson has no intention of sailing for Europe with Cynthia and Dallas, the young children, as her husband feared.

Former Supreme Court Justice George L. Ingraham said Mr. Pratt is fond of his children, and does not wish to be deprived of their society all of the time. He desires to be appointed their guardian.

Mrs. Pratt-Gibson was Beatrice M. Benjamin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Benjamin, of this city, and granddaughter of Henry H. Rogers, Standard Oil millionaire.

She was a leader in the younger married set at Newport during her residence there as the wife of Mr. Pratt.

About a year ago she sued for divorce in Newport, charging her husband abandoned her.

Mrs. Pratt has been living here with her mother. Her children have spent most of the time since the separation of the Pratts at the Benjamin residence. Mrs. Pratt, against the wishes of her mother and father, married Gibson in Connecticut about a week ago.

Justice Giegerich told counsel to submit their papers by November 11.

It's in the Air; New Hampshire Farmers to Have Union

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 29.—Pretty soon there'll be a union of roosters with no crowing until eight in the morning—which, however, will be appreciated by a large majority of country folk. But when the hens organize and refuse to lay except during certain hours of the day——

However, here's the latest. The farmers of Hillsborough County who find the best market for their products here, declared today that the efforts of the farmhands hereabouts to organize unions are meeting with much success. The farmers themselves are considering similar organization.

LABOR CRISIS FORECAST BY HENDERSON

British Leader Says Opposition in U. S. to Unions Is "Incredible"

By International News Service.

London, Oct. 29.—"It is almost incredible that employers in the twentieth century, in a democratically organized country like the United States, should deny to the workers the right to combine and to bargain collectively, through representatives of their own choosing, on questions of hours and working conditions."

This declaration was made today by Arthur Henderson, secretary of the British Labor Party and former member of the War Cabinet.

"Such an attitude indicates a state of industrial feudalism from which one would have thought that we had long since emerged," he said. "Apart from the possibility that the attitude of the employers will provoke industrial warfare in America on a colossal scale, it seems to me to be exceedingly shortsighted to ignore the value of trades unionism as a stabilizing factor in industry. Experience during the railroad crisis in Great Britain proved that trades unionism, when fully recognized and given ample opportunity to exercise its influence, will help maintain industrial peace.

INDUSTRY AT CRISIS.

"It is my personal conviction that great industrial issues which are being pressed toward solution will not be finally settled until trade unions are given a much larger share of responsibility for control of industry and until the status of the workers is raised.

"I personally believe that the world stands upon the eve of tremendous and fundamental changes in the organization of industry.

"Whether these changes will be brought about by peaceful, constitutional means or by direct revolutionary action on the part of organized workers depends very much indeed upon the successful efforts of the international labor convention in Washington. In this connection moderate trade union leaders like myself can only deplore the non-success of our efforts towards conciliation through such joint conferences of employers and workers as have been called into being here by the British government and in the United States by President Wilson.

FAILURE OF CONFERENCES.

"Both these conferences unfortunately appear to have failed of their prime object—a solution of the problems which have been creating unrest among the working classes. The British conference, however, adopted a maximum week of forty-eight hours, minimum wage, maintenance for the unemployed, recognition of trade unions and employers in collective bargaining and creation of a permanent joint council to investigate industrial questions and advise the government. This comprehensive scheme, especially of a permanent joint council, would have gone far to allay unrest.

"It will be my personal regret if the government place obstacles in the way of realization of our hopes by refusing to include in the plans for working hours bills three or four classes of workers, such as agricultural laborers, seamen, policemen and foremen of plants. Failure in this effort at conciliation by the consent of all concerned is bound to be serious. In my judgment it may be extremely difficult if not impossible to get trade unionists to enter another conference of the kind if this one is dissolved without attaining its aims.

"The breakdown of British-American conferences cannot fail but strengthen the extremist elements of both countries who have been advocating direct action. Another thing, I am afraid a breakdown would lead to a renewal of the class struggle in industry."

"AD" MAN HELD FOR CONCEALING ASSETS

Albert N. Rouchat of New York, who formerly lived in Springfield, pleaded not guilty today before Judge James M. Morton, Jr., of the Federal Court here, to an indictment which charged him with concealing assets from his trustee in bankruptcy, Elisha H. Brewster. He was held in $2,000 bail. Take Heart, Men! They Don't Sell Ladies $65 Silk Hose in Boston

It can't be done in Boston!

Socks, at $65 the pair, silken and lace embroidered, that is. It cannot be done. For a journey through all the best Boylston and Tremont street shops proves that it can't.

"Too bad," says that never-yet-caught-up-with creature called "milady." "Too bad—no $65 socks in Boston," she pants.

"By no means too bad," returns Messrs. Boston Shop Keepers. "our best silk socks are $12 the pair. And those are wedding socks. What? $65? The idea is outrageous. It can't be done in Boston."

Now this is a matter of cheer to all overridden husbands of overdressy wives; to all young ladies, anxious to array themselves in that style that Madame Beacon Street will see and turn green with envy over silk socks, this year, in Boston, do not go beyond $12. Over in New York, however, they go to $65. And, also over in New York, according to Madame Fashion, there are other things which linger about prices that might be called fairly topping. For instance, evening corsets.

CLEVER MODELS FOR $100.

"At $100 the pair," the New York corsetiere remarks, nonchalantly, just like that. "We have very clever little models for $100."

"Clever little models, I should think they might have," echoes Madame Boston Corsetiere, in righteous Boston chorus. "Why, in our good city, the best evening corset, already made, does not go beyond $35 or $40. Of course, if you come in to be fitted——"

"Ah, yes," pants young Claribel. "Not that I can afford more than $3.50 for good coutil, with a touch of lace to the top, but it is interesting to know how steep you can pay. So how much, did you say——?"

MADAME CORSETIERE EXPLAINS.

"Of course, if you come in to be fitted, and have 'em made to order," explains the blue-blooded Corsetiere, "of course then you can get a very trig little model, with plush gonwhale under the arms, or Italian tricot, and a lace edge, and garters to rival in formidable durability the more substantial side of Gibraltar, all for——"

"Ah, yes," eagerly echoes young Miss Claribel, "all for——?"

"Oh, a matter of a little $100 or $150," replies Madame Corsetiere, offhand like.

"Ah, yes, too true, a goal to live for," agrees Miss Claribel. "In the meantime, where are those bargains advertised in Sunday's papers for $2.98?"

But if, in socks—silken socks—and corsets, that is most corsets, Boston is shamefully left behind, most of the time by New York, when it comes to other things. Oh, boy—when it comes—

"To the finer influence of art in dress," as a New York establishment announces, "when it comes to that definite sense of style culture, that suggestion of gentle manners and savior faire——"

"Who said anything about savoir faire and manners?" asked one Boston buyer. "Write it up strong: there is plenty of—whatdyecallem—savoir faire in gowns here in Boston. And we can keep neck to neck with New York in prices at that. How's this ethereal confection of a jeune fille dinner dress with ostrich trimmings, very distingue, not much of anything on it, but the original conception and the lines all for less than $75?" How is it, I ask?

"Yes, in Boston, when it comes to the piece de resistance of the evening's attire, New York has nothing on us, in way of price," chorus Boston shoppers.

But there is one item about which the Boston shopper, stuffed with pride for the city of her birth, asks about with trepidation. For the New York salon de manteaux informs its patrons, "In the art of peltry, there are no finer exponents than our wondrous specimens of the original types." Madame Boston halts, hesitatingly, on the threshold of Mr. Boston Furrier.

ARE WE THERE? WELL——

"In the art of peltry," she stammers, "now, Mr. Boston Furrier, I am after a fur coat. But this art of peltry idea from New York. Perhaps, after all, my own city is a little behind in the running. When—air—ah—when it comes to the art of peltry, tell me, are we there?"

And Monsieur Boston Furrier places a chair, bows low, while, with scorn his words come forth. "The art of peltry," says he, "madame, here is a moleskin carriage wrap, for a notion over a thousand. Here is a trifle of a seal scarf—apply the magnifying glass and you will see that it really is a scarf, and not a filmy dream, for a hundred or so, and there, madame, is a sable coat which only costs you $6,000. Art of peltry——"

Madame looks at the moleskin and the seal scarf, and the sable. She gasps; she sighs; she is reassured.

SHE THANKS THE GODS—

"Thank whatever gods there be for that $6,000 trifling coat," she sighs. "You are right. Maybe we do not call it art of peltry in Boston, but we can compare, just the same. Ah, yes, I will think that sable over. And talk it over with William—he's my husband, you know."

"Ah yes—well—I feel better about Boston already. Maybe in corsets; maybe in socks, we are a trifle more like the Plymouth Rock, conservative and not flighty. But when it comes to real prices for real things——"

Madame paused. And Monsieur the Furrier took her up. "Ah, yes, madame," he echoed, "just as I always said. Too true. In the meantime hadn't I better send the sable around, for—er—for William's—that is your husband's—approval?"

GIVE UP HOPE OF FINDING BABY DANZEY

Detectives, After Three Weeks of Searching, Find No Definite Clew

By International News Service.

Hammonton, N. J., Oct. 29.—Billy Danzey's fate is today more of a mystery than ever. Detectives, after three weeks of chasing clews, are unable to say the boy was kidnaped. They laugh at the idea that gypsies stole the boy.

Mrs. Stella Danzey, the mother, a frail, thin-faced woman, torn by vanishing hopes, is today quiet and cool, as if the fate of her son, missing twenty-two days, mattered little to her. Her voice is passionless.

"I do not know the whereabouts of my son," she said today. "All I know is that he is gone. Will I ever see him again? How can I tell? He walked away. Maybe he will come back the same way." She spoke without looking at her questioner.

"I hope to God Billy comes back," cried the father, when visited while he was at work helping lay a concrete flooring in a garage. "Billy will come back to me some day. I feel that I just know he isn't dead."

BOBBY SHAW OF BOSTON MAY GET TITLE

Major Waldorf Astor Does Not Want Seat in the House of Lords

From London comes the news that Bobby Shaw, Boston boy, son of Lady Astor by her first husband, Robert Gould Shaw of Boston, may be raised to the peerage and given a seat in the House of Lords.

Major Waldorf Astor, stepfather of Bobby Shaw, is doing everything in his power to rid himself of the peerage which automatically became his upon the death of his father. He has consulted the legal authorities of England to see if he may pass the title along to the son of Robert Gould Shaw and the present Lady Astor.

Major Astor's object is to remain in the House of Commons, where he hopes to attain distinction.

Major Astor's father devoted years of effort, risked his huge fortune and endured the scoffs of the public in this country to attain the Viscountcy. But Major Astor does not want it.

Thus may Bobby Shaw, son of Boston man, inherit a "peerage in the realm" from the man his mother married when she divorced his father.

BANKING COMMITTEE TO SUPPORT BURRELL

Senator John A. Curtin of Brookline, chairman of the Legislative Committee on Banks and Banking, and the other ten members of this body have pledged their support to Fred J. Burrell, Republican candidate for State Treasurer. The endorsement of the Banks and Banking Committee, of which Mr. Burrell has been a member for some time, is looked upon as a signal victory. Senator Curtin in a published letter says:

"I am very glad to state publicly that I, as well as the other members of the committee, know that Mr. Burrell brought to the discussions of the various matters concerning banking and financial legislation with which the committee had to do a sound judgment, a substantial experience and valuable assistance. I am satisfied that the interests of the public, regardless of party, will be faithfully and ably served by Mr. Burrell's election."

Jones, two provision dealers, a farmer, and three peddlers were in the East Boston Court today, charged with using false scales or with giving insufficient weight. They were fined. They will be in charge of Franklin d'Olier, chairman of the national committee on convention arrangements, and Eric Fisher Wood, national secretary. Henry D. Lindsley, chairman of the Joint National Executive Committee, who will preside at the opening sessions of the convention, will reach Minneapolis Monday.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN OF NEWPORT MEET

Newport, R. I., Oct. 29.—At a meeting held at the residence of Mrs. Daniel B. Hayden on Rhode Island avenue a preliminary organization of the Newport County Women's Republican Club was effected. Mrs. James Griswold Wentz, who is opposed to taxation without representation, and who for several years has been prominent in the Women's Republican Club of New York city, presided and outlined the objects of the proposed local organization. About twenty-five women were present.

LONDON HEARS OF BIG SINN FEIN ARMY

80,000 Men Ready to Settle Irish Question "In Irish Way," Says London Paper

London, Oct. 29.—The secret building up of a formidable Sinn Fein army, which, when its armament is completed, will be capable of settling the Irish question in an Irish way, is revealed today by the Daily Express.

If this situation develops, adds the newspaper, England will be faced with the necessity of sending an army of 250,000 to reconquer the island.

"There is no doubt that the Sinn Fein army is a more efficient and powerful weapon now than at any time in its history," continues the article.

"In November, 1918, twelve hundred companies were in existence. There are more now, organized into battalions and brigades, under commanders and with full staffs. There are technical troops, chiefly engineers, transport service and ambulance corps.

"The total strength of the Sinn Fein force may be put at about 80,000 men, of whom 3,000 are in Dublin.

"The military value of the force is considerable. The men are extraordinarily keen, well disciplined and well trained. The bulk of the Irish soldiers demobilized from the British army have joined the republican force, giving it a foundation of experienced veterans.

"The extent to which it is armed is unknown, and we believe that the British Intelligence Department has no trustworthy information. The army expects to complete its armament from the British garrison by stratagem.

"Sinn Fein intelligence men, some of whom wear British uniforms, know exactly all the locations of British supplies and all the details of the British army."

MRS. ARTHUR J. RICHMOND MOURNED BY SOCIETY

The death of Mrs. Arthur Jones Richmond (Rosita Lavalle) at her home, No. 12 Brimmer street, removes from Boston a well known member of society. Mrs. Richmond was the daughter of the late Mrs. George Shattuck of Beacon street and John Lavalle of Paris, France. Mrs. Shattuck was Miss Rosita Amalia of South America, and after her marriage to Mr. Lavalle lived in Paris. A few years after Mr. Lavalle's death Mrs. Lavalle married Dr. George Shattuck at her home in Paris. Shortly after her marriage she came home with Dr. Shattuck to his Beacon street home, leaving her two children, Mrs. Richmond and the late John W. Lavalle, with their grandmother, the Marchioness Lavalle, whose salon was one of the most interesting of her day, with whom they lived until their education was completed, then coming to join their mother in Boston. Mrs. Richmond was a member of the Sewing Circle of '98 and was noted for her philanthropic work. She is survived by her husband and one son, Mr. Arthur L. Richmond, Harvard '18. Mrs. Eliena Flagg (Eleana Shattuck), No. 99 Commonwealth avenue, and Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson (Corina Shattuck) of No. 274 Beacon street are half-sisters.

The men are charged with taking part and inciting riots at the Charles Chamberlin Company shoe factory, in Raymond, where a strike is now in progress. They will be tried at the present term of the Superior Court. The men were released in bail ranging from $500 to $1,000.

PRIEST TO LECTURE ON LABOR UNIONS TONIGHT

This evening in Boston College High School Hall, James street, the Rev. James L. J. Corrigan, professor and head of the department of philosophy at Boston College, will give the second of his series of lectures on the "Labor Problem." The lecture will be based on the special topic, "Are Unions Advisable?" and this timely theme will be treated in a careful manner by Father Corrigan.

At big clubs and smart hotels, where price is never a factor, Fatima is the one moderate-priced cigarette that actually outsells expensive straight Turkish brands.

Why? Because smokers have learned that this "just-enough-Turkish" blend can be smoked freely without worry about "too many."

BOSTON LIQUOR DEALERS STILL SELL BEER

Await Official Orders Before They Void Their Licenses

Boston liquor dealers continued to sell 2.75 per cent. beer and ale today, and will continue to do so until ordered to stop by somebody in authority. Newspaper announcement that the Volstead enforcement bill is law has not affected the local situation.

The attitude of the dealers is that they "did not get their licenses from the newspapers, and do not expect to void their licenses until officially instructed to do so."

So far as could be discovered, not a single saloon closed its doors today, following final passage of the Volstead bill. Practically all the saloons had their usual supply of "2.75," although a few dealers had also laid in a stock of beverages of one-half of one per cent. alcoholic content in anticipation of the "bone-dry" era that is coming.

The liquor men have not lost all hope. They believe that the Volstead bill will be declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court in December, and that the entire fabric of prohibition legislation may be shaken by court decisions.

Neither has hope entirely faded that war-time prohibition will be annulled by President Wilson within a few weeks.

It is not likely that any of the saloons, liquor stores, or breweries in Boston will close their doors, even after official notification of the Volstead enforcement bill. Retailers and wholesalers said today that they would "stick it out" during November, in the Micawber-like hope that something would "turn up."

There is plenty of the one-half of one per cent. beer and ale on hand in Boston. The dealers are not overenthusiastic about ordering it, however. They point out that this is the worst season of the year to be selling a beverage utterly devoid of "kick."

Boston hotel men say that when the enforcement bill is officially put in operation, it means the end of the hotel bar. John J. McCarthy, president of the Boston Hotel Men's Association, said that most of the hotels would make no effort to keep their bars open.

Whether Federal officials in Boston will officially notify saloon keepers of the new law before starting prosecutions has not indicated. The United States district attorney has the duty of prosecuting all dealers who handle beverages of more than 2.75 per cent. alcoholic content.

Acting Collector of Internal Revenue Andrew J. Casey will appoint men to see that the law is enforced pending the appointment of a State prohibition officer. Collector Casey has appealed to the agencies of law and order to assist his men in seeing that violations of the law are reported.

Brewers Will Bring Suit to Test Dry Law Passed by Congress

New York, Oct. 29.—Retaliatory measures will be projected at once by the United States Brewers' Association in view of the overriding of President Wilson's veto of the prohibition bill by the Senate, and a suit will be entered against the government to test the constitutionality of the enforcement law.

The brewers are particularly bitter over the action of Congress but association members admit that there remains nothing for them to do but submit to the measure until it has been proved contrary to the Constitution.

Hugh F. Fox, secretary of the Brewers' Association, said that the law would affect a large number of soda waters, root beers and other recognized soft drinks as a result of the statute which makes it a crime to manufacture a beverage containing over one-half of one per cent. alcohol.

He declared that these drinks develop considerable alcohol under natural action unless a large amount of injurious preservatives are used in them.

So-called "home drinks," he said, were exempted to "prevent the farmers from arising in wrath if his hard cider or home wine was taken from him."

DENIES PUPILS USE LIQUOR AT SCHOOL DANCES

Mrs. Ferdinanda W. Reed, member of the Cambridge School Committee, who is aroused at the charge of impropriety at public school dances.

Liquor is not used at Cambridge School dances, and young people under the influence of intoxicants do not pirouette about school dance halls, even while an investigation by the school committee is going on.

This statement was made by Mrs. Ferdinanda W. Reed of the Cambridge School Committee, in answer to charges by the Rev. Hugh F. Blunt, that conditions in Cambridge school dance halls were undesirable, despite a finding by the school committee to the contrary.

Mrs. Reed, when seen at her home, No. 103 Walker street, Cambridge, freely discussed the morals and sobriety of the Cambridge public school dances.

"I am incensed that the Rev. Father Blunt would make such charges," she said, "and I know that the things he imagines have taken place have never taken place and never will. I do know that one or two rowdies, on one occasion, got into one of the three dance halls. These rowdies may have had something to drink before they entered. That all the guests are not suitable is a thing that may happen in private homes as well as in a school dance halls. Persons who conduct the dances for the school committee are quick to check any unseemliness.

"I was elected a member of the Cambridge School Committee on a platform of the extended use of public school buildings. In accordance with my beliefs, my committee has let the halls of three public schools in Cambridge, the Thorndike, the Haggerty and the Agassiz, to responsible persons for dances. It prevents waste of costly buildings.

"The school buildings belong to all the people, and all the people should have the opportunity of using them. The other evening I dropped into the Thorndike School to watch the dances. I never saw a prettier party. Things could not have been more seemly nor more pleasant in a private parlor under the eye of a stern mother. The young man in charge followed me to the door when I left.

"'Does everything meet your approval?' he asked. That young man has the right idea of decorum and a solicitude for the proprieties which make the children of my friends of the Thorndike School district safe in his charge.

WILL HOLD HEARING.

"Of course, it is very much to be regretted that one or two rowdies did step into the dances. It is also very much to be regretted that such scandalous charges should have been made. It is more than this. It is disgusting."

Mrs. Reed pointed out that a public hearing on the charges would be held before the Cambridge school committee shortly, at which Rev. Father Blunt would be asked to make his charges publicly. Mrs. Reed and her committee for the extended use of school buildings will be present with full facts to refute whatever charges are made.

MURPHY DEFIES POLICE TO STOP HIS RALLY

Senate Candidate, Threatened With Arrest, Will Speak Tonight in South Boston

Captain John J. Murphy of South Boston, independent candidate for the Senate, in a statement today challenged Police Commissioner Curtis to arrest him at an open air meeting which he intends to hold tonight at Emerson, H and Third streets, South Boston.

Captain Murphy, who is an overseas veteran, invited the commissioner to be present, and asserted that in case of "any unwarranted interference" he would apply for a warrant for the arrest of the man responsible.

A week ago last Monday night a rally held by Captain Murphy was broken up by guardsmen and the speaker informed by Captain Rooney of the City Point police station that a warrant would be asked for his arrest.

WILL MAKE LEGAL FIGHT.

"I have violated no law and do not intend to violate any law," said Captain Murphy. "Whether I shall avail myself of the redress open to me in the courts in an action for malicious prosecution I have not yet decided, but I intend to fight this issue until I get a ruling of the Supreme Court on the question of the constitutional rights of free speech.

"Determined to restrain free speech in Boston and to make an example of me, police headquarters ordered Captain Rooney not to be content with the issurance of a simple summons for my appearance in court, but to request a warrant, so that I must needs be dragged through the streets like a common criminal and lodged in the station house. Be it said to the credit of Judge Logan that he absolutely refused the unreasonable request for a warrant and took the request for a summons under advisement.

WANTS CURTIS TO COME.

"I would like to ask the commissioner what action he took regarding open air meetings held by Congressman Peter F. Tague, a meeting in relation to the Roosevelt memorial, and a newspaper club, which transports singers in a truck throughout the city.

"I take this opportunity of stating to you that in case of any unwarranted interference with my open air meetings hereafter, I shall apply to the courts for a warrant for the arrest of the man responsible.

"I publicly invite you, Mr. Commissioner, to attend my open air rallies. Perhaps you may learn something of the laws of humanity and be coached in the science of liberal-mindedness, which I believe to be one of the essential attributes of a public official.

"My rally tonight, sir, will be held at the corner of Emerson, H and Third street, one block away from Flood square because I do not believe that the latter is big enough to accommodate the throngs who will attend and who are anxious to see if the police department will carry out its bluff."

CLAIMS BRIDE DESERTED HIM; SUES FOR DIVORCE

Massillon W. Angier of North Billerica has filed a suit for divorce against his wife, Mrs. Allie M. Angier of Concord, N. H. They were married in Concord, N. H., July 26, 1914. He alleges desertion at Billerica on December 13, 1914.

$8,000 Engagement Ring for Boston Girl Is Emerald

The high cost of marriage went one point higher today, for a Boston jeweller delivered to a prominent society girl of this city, whose name he refused to divulge, an $8,000 emerald engagement ring.

"She has so many diamonds that nothing in the line of diamonds could interest her," remarked the gem merchant.

The stone is a superfine Brazilian emerald, one of a few of its kind. It was cut by the most expert stone cutter in the city and many days of thought were spent in designing the setting.

The band of the ring is platinum. The huge emerald, cut square, is set among scores of tiny, choice diamonds, supported each side by the so-called pyramid diamond, a long narrow diamond cut from whole large stones.

THE AMERICAN IS COMMENDED FOR EDITORIAL

But Peter F. Tague Is Denounced by Roger Casement Branch

Great Britain's underground attempt to prevent Most Rev. Peter E. Magennis from becoming superior-general of the Carmelite Order throughout the world was roundly denounced at a meeting of Roger Casement Branch, Friends of Irish Freedom, in Deacon Hall on Washington street.

The British government was scored for its interference with spiritual affairs. Father Magennis was hailed as a great Irish leader, and a great churchman, and Colonel Arthur Lynch, who recently visited Boston, was ridiculed as an agent sent to make dissension among those of Irish blood.

Jeremiah Carroll eulogized Father Magennis, and said that the British government's opposition arose from the fact that the priest was president of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

He termed Father Magennis "the worthy successor of SS. Brendan and Columbkille."

Colonel Lynch was likened to Thomas Power O'Connor and Sir Horace Plunkett. Mr. Carroll said that his visit to America had but served to indicate the solidarity of Irish-American opinion in favor of absolute independence for Ireland.

Congressman Peter F. Tague was denounced for his "unwarranted and cowardly attack on Martin M. Lomasney" in connection with the Tague-Fitzgerald election fight. Mr. Lomasney was defended, and the Boston American was commended for its editorial of Saturday, "How the Tague-Fitzgerald Fight Now Stands."

A delegation from the Firemen's Union explained the two-platoon system, and was assured of the support of the Roger Casement Branch. Plans were made for a whist and dance in Deacon Hall, November 20.

SAYS SACCHARIN IS PERMITTED BY LAW

Soda Bottlers' Association Bill to Prohibit It Was Defeated in Legislature

Editor Boston American:

There is no Massachusetts law which prohibits the use of saccharine, as Chapter 208, Acts of 1817, known as the Food and Drug Law of Massachusetts, does not make any reference to saccharine.

Some few months ago the State Department of Health issued a regulation prohibiting the use of saccharine in all articles of food. The soda water bottlers of Massachusetts introduced in the Legislature of 1918-19 a bill to prohibit the use of saccharine, and after lengthy hearings before the Committee on Public Health at the State House we were defeated in having this regulation enacted in the law, and it is our intention to again submit a similar bill to the Legislature of 1920. There have been many court decisions upholding the use of saccharine and its use is permitted in Massachusetts when stated upon the lagel.

The New York Supreme Court decision rendered in 1918 found that saccharin was not injurious to public health in the quantity that it was used by the manufacturer. A recent decision in Illinois also holds the same contention. Many medical experts are likewise of the same opinion that it is not injurious unless taken in large quantities and its expense prevents this. We are advised that in some European countries where sugar cannot be obtained, it is being used entirely for sweetening in tea, coffee, etc.

With the above set of facts before you, we trust that you will place the soft drink bottlers before the public in the same high spirit as in your publication of the 27th.

Yours very truly,
EASTERN SODA WATER BOTTLERS' ASS'N.
Hugh J. McMackin, Secretary.

CRIPPLE KILLS WIFE KISSING OTHER MAN

Telegraph Clerk, Crazed by Jealousy, Puts Four Bullets Into Woman

By Universal Service.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Crazed by the sight of another man kissing her, Joseph B. Perry, thirty-nine years old, a night clerk at the main office of the Postal Telegraph Company, shot and killed his wife last night.

Perry, who is one-armed, had not been living happily with his wife during the last few months, realizing that his wife cared little for him and that another man had displaced him for her affection.

INTERCEPTED LETTER TO HER.

A few weeks ago Perry intercepted a letter intended for his wife from a man who had been paying marked attention to her. When Perry saw his wife in the arms of George Sullivan, no longer able to control himself, Perry went to his office, obtained a revolver, and sought out his wife.

He found her in the company of her mother, the man she embraced and two neighbors. Without warning he poured four shots into his wife's body.

He also attempted to shoot a policeman, who succeeded in subduing him and placing him under arrest.

SAW THEM KISSING.

"I suspected something wrong when I learned Sullivan was not working tonight," said Perry after his arrest. "I asked a boy to attend to my work for a couple of hours and I went to my home. I opened the front door and quietly entered the hallway. I pushed aside the draperies of the living room and there saw my wife and Sullivan clutched in each others' arms and affectionately kissing each other as they sat on the davenport.

"My wife jumped up, I presume startled by my unexpected arrival, and all I remember after that is saying, 'I'll get you for that.' That is all I remember. The rest is blank."

One per cent. of the population of Framingham is suffering from active tuberculosis, indicating more than a million active cases in the country as a whole, according to a statement issued today by the National Tuberculosis Association. This finding was made through a health demonstration at Framingham, approved by a committee appointed by Surgeon-General Blue of the United States Public Health Service.

DR. DEAN HAD NO FOES WHO WOULD KILL HIM SAY FRIENDS

NEIGHBORS DENY SEEING SUSPICIOUS VISITORS

Synopsis of Dr. Dean Mystery

Dr. William Kendrick Dean, gentleman farmer, physician and scholar, was clubbed, gagged and strangled to death at his mountain home on the outskirts of East Jaffrey, N. H., on the night of August 13, 1918, and his body, shrouded in burlap and horse blanket and weighted with a stone, was dropped in a well on his estate.

He knew much about German spy activities in that mountain region and was murdered twelve hours after he had asked a wealthy woman neighbor to hasten to Boston and tell the Department of Justice officials to send up one of their best men to hear and act on his story. He was dead before she left Jaffrey next morning, ignorant of the tragedy until she read about it in a Boston newspaper.

Dr. Dean had received a threatening letter in June, and in July had asked a local policeman the best method to seek police protection in the event of an emergency, saying, "I have lived on the farm twenty-eight years and have never been molested until now." The first instalment appeared in the Boston American of Wednesday, October 22.

At the peep of day she had ventured as far as the barn, where she wanted to go during the night but didn't dare. She found the lantern extinguished in the barn and shook it and found that there was no oil in it. She looked all over the place pathetically calling 'Billy! "Billy!" No answer came. It was 5 o'clock when she made her first search.

Then with increased alarm she frantically sought aid on the telephone. She appears to have called up several friends, but the first officially recorded is the Garfield call.

M. P. Garfield, a farmer, said:

"I have lived in Jaffrey 42 years and have been a neighbor of Dr. Dean about [illegible] years. The first I heard of Dr. Dean's predicament was on August 14, about 8 a. m. Mrs. Dean called my wife by telephone. Mrs. Dean said 'Mr. Dean went to the barn about 1 p. m. and has not come back and I think he died out at the barn.'

"My boy then hitched up our horse and he and I went up. On arriving there Mrs. Dean was outside the door, about ten feet from her house. She came right over where we were and said, 'Oh, Mr. Garfield! It's terrible! It's terrible! I do not know but that this will kill me. I think he is dead at the barn. I cannot find him anywhere. He went out to the barn last night at 11 and has not come back. I got some supper for him, but he did not come back to eat it. He got home about 10:20 p. m. and went to the barn about 11 p. m. to milk and he usually came back about 12, and I waited up all night for him.'

EVIDENCE OF CRIME.

"She said she found his light, but the oil was all burned out and dark. I then went out and looked around and I was coming past the door when she asked me to step in. I went into the sitting room and she said, 'Dr. Dean is dead and I want to give you these turkeys.' Then she told me of how she and Dr. Dean were cousins and lived together more than twenty-five years and always loved one another.

"She said she was twenty-eight and he was twenty-five when they were married. She said that he was a dear boy. She said 'I want to sell this place' and said that she would like to have sold it before, because Dr. Dean was not able to do all the chores. When I looked at the cow I judged that she had been milked and I also felt of her teats and there was not much milk in her bag. The cow was lying down and had been fed.

"We continued hunting around and went up to the barn again and we happened to sit down on the barn steps and the first thing my boy saw was a piece of Timothy hay covered with blood. We then noticed blood on the step and door knob. About this time the selectmen came, Hogan and Coolidge and Perley Enos. Then we started off to hunt again, and finally Mr. Coolidge said, 'We have got to get a lot more men and have this place searched thoroughly.' And it was agreed to look into the cistern and wells. This was about noon.

"I went down by the wall and got a pole, and we went up and took the cover off the cistern and I put the pole down in this and soon felt a bag with a stone in it. I heard the whistle blow 12, noon, when I got the pole. After discovering the object in the well to be a body, we put it back and covered over the cistern and the selectmen went for the authorities, and I hitched up my horse and came home at 12:30 p. m.

LIKED BY EVERYBODY.

"I have never known the Deans to have any enemies. I have known them many years; have never seen any suspicious people around here. They have always kept to themselves. They were liked by everybody, and no person knew their business, as Dr. Dean did very little talking."

Garfield's son, Roger, subscribed to his father's statement.

The first to reach the Dean farm the morning after the murder was William Arthur Smith, aged twenty-one, and a boy. Davis was employed as farm hand by Mr. Ingraham, and he was cutting hay on the Dean place. He was in a field when the Garfields arrived. Smith said:

"At 7 a. m. I hitched up and drove to the Dean place, accompanied by Carl Ingraham, a small boy. Paul de Rosher had been there haying a few days before. I saw nothing unusual on arriving. I drove past the house occupied by the Deans and turned into the field in front of the house. I drove to the farther corner. Mrs. Dean came out and said, 'Dr. Dean is gone. He went to the barn at 11 last night and did not come back.'

"She said that she had gone to the barn at 5 a. m., and looked and called 'Billy'! but got no answer, and she felt sure he was dead in the barn. She said she had searched and asked me to help and I went to the barn, and little Carl and Mrs. Dean followed. I found the side door closed. The big door was open two feet. Mrs. Dean said she had opened it when she went in, at 5 a. m., to hunt for her husband. We went through the big door and we saw nothing unusual.

"The cow and bull were lying down. There was nothing on the barn floor and the wagon was in place. Everything seemed to be in order. I searched the barn and hayloft. Dr. Dean always brought the cow out of the box stall and milked her on the floor, hitching her to a rope.

"After milking he would tie the bull calf out in the yard to an iron bar near the big house. He usually carried the milk up with him and set it down, tied the bull and went home with the milk. Dr. Dean used to drive the turkeys around every afternoon. Mrs. Dean said he had been complaining of his head and heart."

BODY IN CISTERN.

Selectman William F. Coolidge, at present chairman of the board, said:

"I am a selectman and special police officer. The first I knew of the affair was when M. P. Garfield telephoned me at 8 a. m., on August 14, that 'Dr. Dean is gone.' He asked me to do something about it. I told him I would be right up with some men. I got Selectmen P. A. Hogan and Perley Enos, acting chief of police. Arriving at the farm, we met Mrs. Dean. I asked her about Mr. Garfield and she wanted to know who Mr. Garfield was. She seemed out of her mind.

"She then spoke of Dr. Dean, saying 'Mr. Dean is gone. He went to the barn with his milk pail and the lantern and he has not come back and he is dead.'

"We then proceeded to search for Dr. Dean. We met Mr. Garfield and his son and a boy named Smith, and they said they had been all over the farm and barn and houses, but had not been in the cellar of the bungalow where Dean lived. We continued about the barn and then went to the cellar, but found nothing.

"We also looked in the well at the house, and then I asked about the cistern, which we could see, and Garfield said that he had also looked into that, but nothing was standing up there. We continued our search, and about 11 a. m. Selectman Hogan went up toward the house and it was decided to investigate the cistern, and we got a pole and poked around in there. Mr. Garfield got the pole and I pointed it down and lifted up and down, and I thought that Dean was there.

"Then some one got a hook from the barn, and a boy named George Stratton volunteered to go down in the cistern to a point where he could stand and fish about, so that he could see what it was, and we found out that it was a body tied up. This was about 11:30 a. m.

"As a result we let him right back in and covered the cistern up and got Mr. Pickard and Dr. Densmore by telephone (Mr. Pickard is county solicitor, and Dr. Densmore medical referee for Cheshire County. We waited until they came, about 2 p. m., and I was present when the body was taken out and saw the hands were tied behind the back with a rope about the size of window cord, and the knots were several square knots.

"About his knees a rope was bound several times. This was soft rope and tied with a square knot. There was a bag, a short sack bag of burlap pulled down over his head and tied to the loops of his pants and one loop was broken. When the bag was pulled off a rock came out weighing about twenty pounds, and a light horse blanket was wrapped about his head and a halter rope was about the blanket. He wore low shoes and overshoes."

Selectman Edward C. Boynton, at that time chairman of the board and the most fearless and vigorous agitator in the movement to have Dr. Dean's murder avenged, said:

"I arrived at the Dean farm about 2 p. m. at the invitation of Selectman W. F. Coolidge, who informed me of finding Dr. Dean murdered and in a cistern on the land. When I arrived I went to the cistern. I could see only the water. I then went down to the barn and looked the barn over. I saw that the cattle had not been cleaned out. I saw that the horse was in the barn and knew that the horse was in the village the night before. I saw the wagon drawn up on the main barn floor. The shafts were put up to take the least amount of room.

"In the wagon I saw a hitch rope. I did not see things upset in the barn, as if there had been a struggle. I did not see any blood at any place, until George Wellington called my attention to blood on the grass and a drop or two on the barn porch at the small door. There was more blood on the grass than on the porch steps.

SQUARE KNOTS IN ROPES.

"I was present when the body of Mr. Dean was removed from the cistern about 2:30 p. m. The men who pulled the body from the cistern were William T. Leighton, the undertaker, and Walter Emerson and others. Mr. Pickard took notes on the condition of the body. The knots on the ropes were noted and I said, 'Cut the ropes and save the knots for evidence,' which was done. Then the bag was taken off and the wounds on the head exposed. Then I observed that his hands were tied behind his back. Ropes were around his knees; also a hitch rope around his neck, but not tied.

"The rope was wound around his neck twice, but did not seem to be tight. His face was blue-black. I noticed that his collar and necktie were on apparently straight and a necktie pin in his tie. I did not see that his clothing was torn. The sleeves of his shirt were rolled up. His shirt was not torn. He had on khaki knee pants, and I observed that he had on overshoes and that one was torn in the back.

"I saw a large rock, which came from the bag which was over Dr. Dean's head. I also saw the blanket which was wound around his head, and, at the time, I noticed this particularly, as I thought the stone might have caused the cuts, but with the blanket wound around his head, that would protect his head. I saw considerable blood on the blanket, and felt that the blanket must have been put on at the time the wounds were made. I then looked all over the grass to see if I could find any place where the body could have been dragged to the cistern, but could find no indications whatever."

A trained investigator could not have exercised a more observing or practiced eye than Chairman Boynton that day. Little escaped his notice. Said he, continuing:

"The shower, one of the worst in years, came on at 5 p. m., and after that I remained at the big house where Dr. Dean's body lay. Selectman Hogan and William T. Leighton, the undertaker, were also present. After I had seen the body pulled out of the cistern I concluded that it was a case of murder.

"The idea came to my mind that Dr. Dean probably knew too much regarding German workings and that he was killed by some one connected with German propaganda and that the finding of Dr. Dean's body was to serve as a warning to others connected with the same German signal light propaganda, that if they meddled, they would meet the same fate.

"I have known Dr. Dean some twenty-five years. I never heard him say that he was afraid of anybody. I never saw him under the influence of liquor. I worked for Dr. Dean years ago, when he built the new house, and I always found him a very honest and sincere man.

"About 5 p. m. I saw Mrs. Dean go out to the barn. This was during the shower, and she must have become soaking wet. I did not notice her carrying anything. I did not notice anything about Mrs. Dean that looked suspicious. I was not intimate with the Dean family. I did not know his mode of living.

"It was thought at the time that ——— was connected with the murder, as various people expressed their views about his being ——— and making frequent trips to ——— and usually going to another station to take his train for ———. Also when he came to the village one of them, either he or his wife, would always stay with the car, and it was though this car might contain a wireless apparatus which they could go out and operate and would want to protect."

THE TRUTH

You are being asked by the deserting policemen of the city of Boston to believe that they were justified in doing what President Wilson called their "crime against civilization."

They plead with you that a strike was their only way to secure relief from what they call "intolerable conditions" and "an autocratic commissioner."

ASK THEM why their Grievance Committee wrote the following letter of appreciation to Commissioner Curtis on July 16th last—just six weeks before they struck:

"Dear Sir: We take this opportunity to thank you sincerely in behalf of ALL THE PATROLMEN OF THE BOSTON POLICE DEPARTMENT for the MANY VITAL AND IMPORTANT BENEFITS obtained and which were championed by you, including the non-contributory pension, corrections in the rule relating to unnecessary reporting by night men on their off days and excuses from different roll calls. WE DESIRE TO EXPRESS OUR DEEP SENSE OF GRATITUDE FOR YOUR EFFORTS IN OUR BEHALF IN OBTAINING THE INCREASE IN SALARY. With assurance of OUR HIGHEST CONSIDERATIONS AND ESTEEM, we remain * *

OPEN CONGRESS OF WORKING WOMEN

Aim to Remove Evils of Industry Detrimental to the Home

By Universal Service.

Washington, Oct. 29.—The first international congress of working women opened at the National Museum with forty delegates from sixteen foreign countries and the United States.

The congress was convened in response to a call from the National Women's Trade Union League of America.

AIMS OF THE CONGRESS.

Following welcome of the foreign delegates by Mrs. Raymond Robins, as chairman of the opening session, Miss Mary Van Kleeck of New York, sounded the keynote of the congress in the following words:

"Women must seek not protection against the evils of industry, but a position which will enable them, as women, to remove the evils of industry which affect both men and women workers and which are detrimental to the home and to the welfare of children.

"We must emphasize not protection of women, but participation by women, and see to it that women have a normal place in industry and a freedom of expression which will guarantee recognition of woman's point of view.

"At the present time women are suffering because of too many humanitarian ideas and too little concentration on the real problems affecting industry and the technique of accomplishing these reforms."

COUNTRIES REPRESENTED.

Six interpreters of as many languages are being used, the delegates represent France, Japan, Poland, Sweden, Czecho-Slovakia, Belgium, England, Canada, Italy, Argentine, Norway, Denmark, Serbia, Spain, India, Switzerland and the United States.

The congress will continue for seven days. Subjects for discussion are application of the eight-hour-day or forty-eight-hour-week, preventing or providing against unemployment, women's employment care of mothers and babies, and the extension and application of the Berne International Convention for the prohibition of white phospherous in the manufacture of matches.

HARVARD FUND STILL NEEDS $6,500,000

Contributions Are Below Average; Boston Division Holds Lead

The fifth week of the Harvard Endowment Fund campaign began today with nearly eight and a half million dollars pledged. Not quite a million dollars was added to the fund during the fourth week. During the past few days the contributions have fallen slightly below the previous daily average.

At noon today the fund was practically 55 per cent. subscribed, the totals being as follows:

Boston	$3,372,063
New York	3,113,387
Outside	1,861,724
Total	$8,347,174

Keen competition continues between the various Boston groups and the financiers and doctors are making every effort to wrestle first place from the manufacturers.

Charles B. Wiggin of South Lancaster in a letter to Thorvald S. Ross, chairman of the Plymouth County Division, accompanying a check for $1,000 for the Harvard endowment fund, said:

"My Dear Ross—I thank you for helping me reach a decision in the matter of my subscription to the Harvard fund. As you know, I am not a college man, but I would be most ungrateful if I failed to recognize the benefits of your great university, not only to my community but to mankind in general. I inclose a check which inadequately expresses the foregoing sentiment."

VOTES INCREASED PAY TO WOBURN TEACHERS

Golden, presiding at the meeting, approved the increases.

MEXICANS HOLD ATTORNEY FOR JENKINS

Will Investigate Affairs of Man Who Alone Handled the $150,000 Ransom

By International News Service.

Mexico City, Oct. 29.—An investigation of the capture of W. O. Jenkins, American consular agent at Puebla, by Mexicans who released him upon the receipt of $150,000 ransom, is being made at Puebla by Mexican government authorities.

Eduardo Mestre, attorney for Mr. Jenkins, who paid the money to the Mexicans and acted as agent in securing the release of the American official, is reported to have been held at Puebla in 10,000 pesos bail.

A dispatch from Puebla said that Mestre declared that "rumors that the consular agent had not been kidnaped were absolutely unfounded."

Hilario Medina, acting foreign minister, said that Mr. Jenkins' exequatur had not been rescinded, but the government was awaiting the result of the investigation now being made at Puebla.

The sensational turn in the case followed the allegation by State officials at Puebla that they believed Jenkins had not been kidnaped by bandits, but that the whole thing was a plan to collect ransom and work against the government.

Three times back for more

ONLY good values are ever reordered. When there are not one, but two reorders, they must be BETTER VALUES.

Yet, three times within almost as many weeks we have gone into the market to procure more of the coats that stout women have found here at $35 in the corner of inexpensive suits and coats.

Three times—and each time successful!

Each time successful because one person's sole duty was to discover ways and means of buying suits and coats at $35 and less.

They said suits and coats of Filene quality at these prices were a thing of the past, and that customers did not want inexpensive clothes anyway.

Filene specialization proved both statements to be wrong.

It is typical of Filene specialization to solve a problem like this by putting a specialist onto the job.

It is typical of Filene's to give BETTER VALUES such as you will find in this corner of inexpensive coats and suits, fifth floor.

Don't Neglect Your Breakfast

The Fear of Indigestion Often Prompts One to Start the Day Wrong. Eat What You Like, Take a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet and You're Safe.

Breakfast offers many of the most savory dishes of all the things we eat. And yet more people than otherwise go without breakfast save a roll and cup of coffee for fear of indigestion. If you like a fried egg, or some buckwheat or sausage for breakfast go to it and follow with a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet. You'll have no trouble. The average person who neglects breakfast will be hungry before noon. Most men smoke to kill the appetite, or munch on something to carry on till lunch time. An empty stomach under these conditions is not storing up energy, but on the contrary, is susceptible to many influences that may work hardship for the next meal.

It is advisable to eat three good meals a day and digest them. If the stomach seems to be weak, to help it or give it assistance is the rational thing to do. Try a good breakfast and follow it with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and you'll soon learn that regularity of meals follows a natural tendency, not an acquired one. You will find Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets on sale in almost all drug stores throughout the United States and Canada.

Child Saved by Mother

Gertrude Lamarre, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anselme Lamarre, 79 Main street, Sanford, Maine, was saved from fits by the prompt action of her mother, who administered Dr. True's Elixir.

Mrs. Lamarre wrote the following to Dr. J. F. True & Co.: "My daughter, Gertrude, had dizzy spells and could not even go out, for she always complained of being sick. She used your elixir (Dr. True's Elixir, the Family Laxative and Worm Expeller). She never had any fits since. I feel very grateful to you."

Symptoms of worms: Constipation, deranged stomach, swollen upper lip, sour stomach, offensive breath, hard and full belly, with occasional gripings and pains about the navel, pale face of leaden tint, eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids, itching of the nose, itching of the rectum, short dry cough, grinding of the teeth, little red points sticking out on the tongue, starting during sleep, slow fever.

Dr. True's Elixir has been faithful in its duties as a family Laxative and Worm Expeller since 1851—over 68 years' reputation. Everyone can improve their health by simply looking after the bowels—a pure herb laxative, which Dr. True's Elixir is, will promptly relieve all worry and disorders. AT ALL DEALERS.

FAVORS ONE-WAY ALTERNATING STREETS

Allston Man Makes Practical Suggestion to Relieve Traffic

Alternating east and west bound streets, between Tremont and Washington streets, is a practical suggestion offered by C. L. Goodwin of Allston, to relieve the traffic congestion in the heart of Boston's business section.

Making Avery street a west bound, one-way thoroughfare, would give teams and heavy trucks an opportunity to come in from Washington street, deliver goods, and swing around through Mason street and down West street in an easterly direction. Other streets running parallel to School street would alternate as east and west bound streets.

This plan, according to Mr. Goodwin, would obviate much of the tarffic congestion now existing along Tremont street and would permit speedier moving of vehicles and the prompt despatch of merchandise to destinations in the business sections.

WANTS NEW TRAFFIC FORCE.

Traffic Editor, Boston American:

In regard to this traffic problem my suggestion is this—keep these former policemen just where they are and let a new lot of men and soldier boys keep their jobs and continue their duty as the old officers didn't handle the traffic as well when they started as the new ones do now.

Kindly consider what Mr. F. Bradlie Abbot said in regard to incline bridges as I think it would be a great help, especially to the women folks.

A CONSTANT READER.

KEEP COMMON FOR MOTHERS.

Traffic Editor, Boston American:

Boston Common is about the only real breathing place of the working people at noon hours. More than that, it is the only breathing place for mothers and children who live about the city. The students of hygiene have lectured time after time on what a blessing the Common is to the public. If the Common is sliced to satisfy automobile owners, because the traffic controllers at present are inefficient in their duties, the poor people and the working class will be smothered. If the Common is sliced at every election there will be no Common left.

That is not the easiest and best solution of the traffic situation. The only way out of the trouble is to reinstate the striking policemen. These men have the experience of every emergency from fire apparatus to runaway horses in crowded streets. If the police strikers did not have a just cause Mr. Curtis would not have to go out of Boston or to change the requirements to get men.

I have been a reader of the Boston American for a good many years and appreciate the way in which the readers are given a voice.

PUT STRIKING POLICE BACK.

Traffic Editor, Boston American:

May I, a mere woman, and driver of a motor vehicle enter into your column and say a few words in regard to the traffic problem?

It is a pleasure to drive through the places where the regular police are on duty, but a horrible nightmare and a dismal failure where the present traffic squad are on. The best way I see out of it is to give Commissioner Curtis a job in Holland, sawing wood and put the striking police back on the job.

WIDEN WASHINGTON STREET.

Traffic Editor, Boston American:

Put the Boston police back on the job, that is the solution of the present chaotic condition of street traffic. To widen Tremont street by taking a slice off the Common will not relieve the situation but will enlarge upon it by adding more traffic and making foot traffic more dangerous. Why not then, if it be so necessary to widen the above named streets, widen Washington street as well from Boylston street to Dock square? Why do the job in pieces? Why take from the people the pride of their heart, the Boston Common, for commercialism? Why not apply the same dose to Washington street? Why just widen Tremont street and not Washington street? It is regulation that will settle the question, not regulation from a selfish point of view as coming from the business interest, but what in particular is most to the public need. It is a mathematical problem, that can best be worked out by brains. Why does this cry of congestion come up, since the policemen's strike? Does that not show that the policemen had the matter well in hand. Disturbances of any kind create disorders.

The police strike has had its effect upon the street traffic. They knew their business and they did it.

TAXI MAN'S IDEA

Traffic Editor, Boston America.

I am the owner of a taxi, with a stand at the State House. I have driven in the streets of Boston for the last thirty-five years and have watched the traffic increase from year to year. I have come to the conclusion that the time has arrived when we must take a part of the Common to relieve the congestion of the streets. I would suggest taking at least fifty feet from Park street to Park square—then Tremont and Boylston streets would be wide enough for traffic going both ways. I think it would be a good thing to reverse the traffic on Winter street. That would give a straight route for traffic coming in on Beacon street to the South Station and the shopping. It would also relieve the congestion on School and Beacon streets. Making Tremont a one-way street would be a mistake, as Washington is not wide enough to take care of all the traffic going north. I would like to see the old traffic squad back.

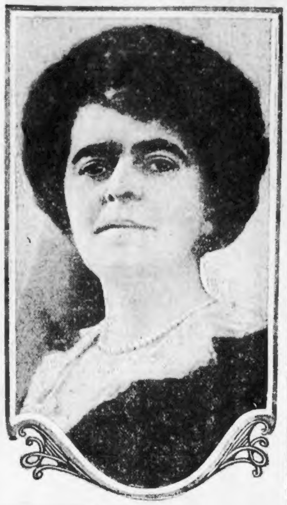
JUDGE NORRIS WEARS HER PEARLS WITH GOWN



New York's first woman magistrate, Mrs. Jean H. Norris, who wears her gown open at the neck, with string of pearl beads to add a further touch of femininity to the otherwise sombre robe of office.

New York, Oct. 29.—A new fashion in magisterial costume is likely to be started by Mrs. Jean H. Norris, New York's first woman magistrate, who, sitting in the woman's court with City Magistrate Norman J. Marsh, found the sombre black silk robe of office incomplete without a few feminine touches.

Judge Norris wore the gown open at the neck, with the collar of her white silk shirtwaist over the neckband of the gown, and added a further touch of femininity to the costume with a string of pearl beads.

Although she took an intense interest in the proceedings, she didn't deny that she was also vastly interested in the fact that the court mirror was not so hung that she could look at it. Judge Norris will sit with Magistrate Marsh the rest of this week and after that will preside alone.

HINGSTON FREED OF STABBING CHARGE

Frank P. Hingston, twenty-seven, of No. 706 Tremont street, was discharged in Superior Court on a complaint of assault with a dangerous weapon upon Josiah Huggs, colored. He was exonerated of all blame in the stabbing affray, which occurred on September 9 at No. 87 Summer street.

Hingston was also discharged on a count charging default of bail.

Huggs was a janitor at No. 87 Summer street. He charged that Hingston assaulted him without reason and that a knife was used on him.

Hingston's story, which was accepted by the court, was entirely different. Hingston said that on the morning the fight occurred he was in the building at No. 87 Summer street on legitimate business.

Huggs suddenly came upon him, he said, ordered him out and, without waiting for a reply, he claimed, called him vile names and struck him. Hingston retaliated, and said he knocked Huggs against some steam pipes, cutting his head.

When he attempted to leave the building, Hingston testified that Huggs pursued him with a knife, with which the colored man was cut in the ensuing struggle. Huggs followed him into the street with a revolver, Hingston said, but did not fire.

All the witnesses corroborated the word of the defendant, who has a responsible job with a big auto concern. The default of bail charge was dismissed after it developed that it was brought through a misunderstanding on the part of police officials.

BAKERS ARE NOT PROFITEERS, SAYS LEADER

Speaker at New England Association's Convention Wants Agitators Barred

That there has been no profiteering by bakers was asserted by several speakers at the convention of New England bakers at the Hotel Brunswick.

"Whereas foodstuffs have gone up 92 per cent, since 1913, and wheat 127 per cent.," said Gordon Smith of Mobile, Ala., president of the American Association of the Baking Industry, "the price of bread has advanced but 75 per cent. There can be no cry against the baker on this score."

Secretary of State A. P. Langtry was the spokesman of Governor Coolidge, making the address of welcome to the 200 delegates. Victor A. Friend of Melrose presided.

NEED OF ORGANIZATION.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B Harris of Waterville, Me., were the first speakers on the program. "We have always tried to make our bread as much like the local housewives' as possible," said Mr. Harris, "and our most successful recipes for cakes have invariably been given to us by customers." Mrs. Harris described the bookkeeping methods used in their establishment.

D. P. Chindblom, Chicago, field secretary of the American Association of the Baking Industry, said that there was great need of more efficient organization of master bakers, "not for dollars and cents, but to combat unrest and to render a higher public service."

KEEP OUT AGITATORS.

"Display Bakery Systems" was the subject of a talk by John M. Hartley, Chicago, secretary of the National Retail Bakers' Association. Walter A. Dietz, Springfield, president of the Massachusetts Retail Bakers' Association, urged strict immigration laws, in order to keep out foreign agitators, and said that the young American was needed in the industry.

"Bread, the National Food," was the subject of Mrs. C. Q. Murphy, New York city, chairman of the advisory committee, Women's National Economic Council. John S. Vandeleur, Philadelphia, urged more attention to sales methods.

The last speaker of the day was Frank R. Shepard of Boston, who praised the co-operation of the bakers during the war, and urged a better quality of bread as the best method of meeting the competition of the housewives, whom he classified as the only real competitors.

STOLEN KHAKI BOUGHT FOR 10 CENTS A YARD

Providence Merchant Held in Big Freight Thefts; Got Shoes at $3 a Pair

Prividence, R. I., Oct. 29.—How he bought khaki cloth at ten cents a yard and women's and men's shoes at $3 a pair was described to United States Commissioner A. C. Matteson today by Mason Remmer, the wholesale drygoods merchant, who has confessed to receiving stolen property in connection with the big freight thefts.

In his testimony Remmer implicated the three Morrell brothers, Joe, Fred and Pasquale, from whose place on Marietta street Remmer claims he got the stolen goods. Remmer said his life had been threatened by members of the alleged organized gang of thieves.

Remmer testified that Ben Feinstein took him to the Morrell brothers, where he found the barn filled with cloth and shoes. He said a dozen deliveries of these goods were made in broad daylight to his barn on North Main street, a truck being used.

He said Joe Morrell had never taken part in the delivery of the goods, but that he had paid Joe Morrell for what he bought. He said the Morrells told him that they had help at the different freight yards.

Joseph Einhorn, who works for Remmer, said money had been left with him by Remmer to pay the Morrells. Herbert Howard of Brockton, Frank Brown of Canton and James E. Burke of South Braintree identified some of the shoes and cloth found in Remmer's place.

The Morrells are out on bail of $5,000, but Federal authorities intimated today that this would be raised to $10,000.

GUGGENHEIM LEFT AN ESTATE OF $3,288,038

New York, Oct. 29.—Mme. Amy G. Lurati of San Remo, Italy, has received $18,750 from the estate of Benjamin Guggenheim, who died in the wreck of the steamship Titanic, and will receive $7,500 per year for the rest of her life. This was made known in the Surrogate's Court when Daniel, Mary and Isaac Guggenheim, brothers of Benjamin, filed account showing the value of the estate as $3,288,038. Mme. Lurati was Miss Amy Goldsmith of this city, a sister of Byron B. Goldsmith. She married Samuel A. Tuska, a New York financier, and sep[illegible] On May 4, 1907, Benjamin Guggenheim made a contract with her by which he agreed to pay her $7,500 a year for life. Subsequently Mr. Tuska obtained a divorce, naming Mr. Guggenheim as corespondent. Later Mrs. Tuska became the wife of Agostino Lurati.

Their Medicine Chest For 20 Years

IT is characteristic of folks after they pass the allotted "three score years and ten," to look back over the days that are gone and thoughtfully live them over.

I find myself, at seventy-one, frequently drifting back a quarter of a century, when I see myself in the little drug store I owned at Bolivar, Mo., making and selling a vegetable compound to my friends and customers—what was then known only as Dr. Lewis' Medicine for Stomach, Liver and Bowel Complaints.

For many years while I was perfecting my formula I studied and investigated the laxatives and cathartics on the market and became convinced that their main fault was not that they did not act on the bowels, but that their action was too violent and drastic, and upset the system of the user; which was due to the fact that they were not thorough enough in their action, some simply acting on the upper or small intestines, while others would act only on the lower or large intestines, and that they almost invariably produced a habit requiring augmented doses.

I believed that a preparation to produce the best effect must first tone the liver, then act on the stomach and entire alimentary system. If this was accomplished, the medicine would produce a mild, but thorough elimination of the waste without the usual sickening sensations, and make the user feel better at once.

After experimenting with hundreds of different compounds, I at last perfected the formula that is now known as Nature's Remedy, which I truly believe goes further and does more than any laxative on the market today. The thousands of letters from users have convinced me I was right, and that the user of Nature's Remedy as a family medicine, even though he may have used it for twenty-five years, never has to increase the dose.

My knowledge of medicine and the results of its use in my own family and among my friends, before I ever offered it for sale, caused me to have great faith in Nature's Remedy from the very first.

And now as I find myself nearing the age when I must bow to the inevitable and go to another life, my greatest pleasure is to sit each day and read the letters that each mail brings from people as old or older than I, who tell of having used Nature's Remedy for ten, fifteen and twenty years, and how they and their children and grandchildren have been benefitted by it.

It is a consoling thought, my friends, for a man at my age to feel that aside from his own success, one has done something for his fellow man. My greatest satisfaction, my greatest happiness today, is the knowledge that tonight more than one million people will take a Nature's Remedy (NR Tablet) and will be better, healthier, happier people for it. I hope you will be one of them.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 10c and 25c.

CHARGES DUE TO AN OLD FEUD, SAYS TUFTS

District Attorney Answers Opponent's Claim Regarding Quashing of Hart Case

A feud between Cambridge police captains, dating back more than a decade and involving the famous Annie Mullins murder, is given by District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts as the basis for charges brought against him as district attorney for Middlesex County by Senator William E. Russell, candidate for that office.

In his charges Candidate Russell intimates that James Hart, former Boston policeman of the Brighton district, indicted for receiving a stolen automobile, was not prosecuted by District Attorney Tufts, though a warrant was asked for him.

The District Attorney's answer, besides involving the famous murder, teems with his charges of jealousy and feud between Captain Gordon and Captain Patrick Hurley of the Cambridge police, while Hart, the direct cause, sinks into insignificance, and Candidate Russell is charged with being the unknowing tool.

THE MULLINS MURDER.

Back in 1908, Annie Mullins was murdered in Arlington. The Cambridge police worked with Arlington on the mystery that baffled the country. Gordon and Hurley both lieutenants then, doing equally good work. Finally, James Manther and Frank Delorey were arrested and Gordon secured a confession from Manther, which gave him the lion's share of credit for the case. Since that time, according to District Attorney Tufts, Hurley has been bitterly jealous of Gordon, and has made it his life work to "get" his former associate.

Reaching the specific charge brought by Senator Russell that Hart was not arrested following his indictment by the Grand Jury last March, Tufts said that the candidate should well know that secret indictments were the common usage when it was believed by the Grand Jury or the court that additional criminals might be captured provided the indictment was not made public.

CHARGES JEALOUSY.

"As a matter of fact," said the district attorney, "Captain Hurley came to me to secure a warrant against Hart after Hart had first appeared before the Grand Jury and no indictment had been returned. When Hart again appeared last March he was indicted on the charge of receiving a stolen automobile, but since that time Hurley has never come to me for a warrant.

"Had he done so I would not have given it to him, for I have no respect for him nor confidence in him. Instead of attending to his police duty he has made it his life work to secure something against Captain Gordon. His jealousy led him to declare three Everett holdup men captured by Captain Gordon to be innocent, though in point of fact all these men pleaded guilty in court."

STORY OF HART'S CASE.

Again, according to the District Attorney, Hart was brought into his office by Captain Hurley. The captain asked Tufts if he would prosecute Cambridge police officers if evidence of the larceny of autos was brought against them. The District Attorney replied that he would prosecute each and all such officers if the evidence were presented.

To the best of the District Attorney's memory the conversation that followed was as follows:

"This man," said Hurley, pointing to Hart, who had been introduced to Tufts, "has been stealing autos."

"I didn't steal any autos," interrupted Hart.

"You resigned from the Boston police force when you were charged with it, didn't you?" returned Hurley, and Hart answered in the affirmative.

"He has evidence against certain Cambridge officers," continued Hurley.

"I have no evidence," again interrupted Hart.

Followed crimination and recrimination between the two until the District Attorney was compelled to interfere, and Hart said he had heard that certain Cambridge officers had been implicated in auto thefts.

Later on, when the District Attorney was conducting a case against one White, charged with auto theft, Hurley and Hart appeared as witnesses to secure an indictment. Hart refused to testify, as his testimony would only be hearsay, and when Hurley attempted to testify his testimony was declared incompetent for the same reason.

Following this, Hurley appeared before the District Attorney, demanding the indictment of Hart. This was sought by the District Attorney, but the Grand Jury refused to return the indictment, and it was continued to give further time for securing evidence. In the March session Hart was indicted for receiving stolen property, though the indictment was secret, that the capture of other criminals might not be hampered. Since that time Hart has been of service to the District Attorney in his campaign against auto thieves.

This sum would amount to about $12,000.

NEW COLLECTOR SOON TO BE NAMED

Choice Narrows Down to Marshal Mitchell and Judge E. B. O'Brien

Washington, Oct. 29.—It is expected that the appointment of a successor to John F. Malley, recently resigned as collector of internal revenue for Massachusetts, will be made soon. Because of the importance of the office and the excellent record made by the recent collector, the Secretary of the Treasury has made it known that he will not consider recommendations other than those of men possessing superior qualifications.

There are a number of aspirants for the appointment. It is believed by those close to the secretary that it has narrowed down to a choice between John J. Mitchell, former Congressman, and Judge Edward B. O'Brien of Marblehead, associate justice of the district court of Lynn.

WORKING FOR MITCHELL.

Mr. Mitchell, it is said, is not making an active fight for the appointment, but is being put forward by an influential element in the Democratic National Committee. His availability is well known to the Administration leaders, and his loyalty to the President is being advanced in his favor. His cause is in the hands of Dr. John W. Coughlin of Fall River, Massachusetts member of the Democratic Committee, who is a close personal friend of Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President.

Judge O'Brien is an avowed aspirant for the appointment, and has the support of Congressman Michael F. Phelan of Lynn.

The appointment will be made by Carter Glass, Secretary of the Treasury. He and Congressman Phelan are the warmest personal friends, and for that reason Judge O'Brien's backers believe his chances of appointment are excellent, inasmuch as they expect to have the influence of the Congressman from the Lynn district exerted in Judge O'Brien's behalf.

DONOGHUE'S HOPE GONE.

Frank J. Donoghue, former Secretary of State in Massachusetts, no longer hopes of the appointment as Mr. Malley's successor. His strongest backer for appointment as Postmaster of Boston was David I. Walsh, but it is understood here that since the Senator made his speech on the treaty and the League of Nation, and their bearing on the Irish question, the White House has shown on evidence of seeking him out for special favor in the disposition of patronage.

Secretary Tumulty, however, denies that White House patronage has been withdrawn from Senator Walsh since Congressman Phelan also denies he is supporting Judge O'Brien.

But both denials are considered by local politicians as "political" denials only.

$50,000 BLAKE JEWEL ROBBERY "INSIDE" JOB

Tarrytown, N. Y., Oct. 29.—"An inside job" is the way the Tarrytown police today describe the theft of $50,000 worth of jewelry Monday night from the home of Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, formerly Mrs. Clarence A. Mackay, at Hawkhurst. The police admit they have no clew to the thief. Mrs. Blake declares her servants are trustworthy.

Dowling's Part Most Difficult Known in Movies

In "The Miracle Man" at the Park Theatre Joseph J. Dowling plays the character of a deaf, dumb and almost blind man, yet continues by his art to dominate every situation. In the picture with him is Betty Compson.

How could a man who is supposed to be deaf and dumb and almost blind convey any ideas to a camera? That was the problem set before Joseph J. Dowling when he assumed the part of the aged patriarch in "The Miracle Man."

In the big picture now at the Park, Dowling depicts an aged faith healer, deaf and dumb, paralyzed by the weight of years and almost totally blind. It would seem almost impossible for such a person to convey a single thought by pantomime or expression to the audience. Yet, in the picture Dowling commands every scene in which he appears. It is sheer art backed by a marvelous personality. In a recent discussion in New York Dowling in "The Miracle Man" was given credit for depicting the most difficult character that any actor has ever been asked to play before the lens.

URGE PHYSICIAN AT EVERY POST OF MISSION

Doctors as Important as Religious Workers, Say Methodists at Golden Jubilee

Physicians are as important as religious workers in modern foreign missionary work, according to speakers at the Golden Jubilee convention of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Harvard Memorial Church, Brookline, today.

The physician gets ready entry into the homes of Chinese, Japanese and Hindus, it was explained, and blazes the way for the missionary.

The meeting opened with 1,200 delegates. The speech of welcome was by Bishop E. H. Hughes, who lauded Governor Coolidge for his course in the police strike, and said that in statecraft, as well as in religious effort, Massachusetts was in the forefront.

Mrs. W. F. McDowell, national president, presided. She reported that within a year it was hoped that every foreign mission post would have a physician as well as a missionary.

She reported that since the society was organized fifty years ago $21,617,286 had been expended in foreign work. The society now has property worth $3,710,860 in foreign fields. It has sent 1,060 women workers into non-Christian lands, mostly into China, Japan and India. It maintains twenty-one hospitals abroad and has twenty women doctors. Scores more are being educated.

Among the delegates were three Chinese women physicians, now resident in the United States. They were Drs. Ida Kahn, Li-Bi-Cu, and Mary Stone, all three of them Christians.

Have Pretty Teeth

Remove That Dirty Film

All Statements Approved by High Dental Authorities

Free A 10-Day Tube of Pepsodent, to show you how to end film. See below.

Look in the Glass

Look at your teeth in the glass. Then brush them in this new way for ten days and look again.

There is a film on your teeth—a slimy film. It clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays. The tooth brush does not end it. The ordinary tooth paste does not dissolve it. So it stays between the teeth and elsewhere and may do a ceaseless damage.

That film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film.

Dental science, after years of searching, has found a way to combat it. Able authorities have proved it by many careful tests. Now the method is embodied in a dentifrice called Pepsodent, and leading dentists everywhere are urging its daily use.

A 10-Day Tube is now supplied to everyone who asks. Test it and see what it means to you.

A Week Will Tell

The results of Pepsodent will be a revelation. A week will show you that there is a way to whiter and safer teeth. For your sake and your children's sake, make this test and see.

Pepsodent is based on pepsin, the digestant of albumin. The film is albuminous matter. The object of Pepsodent is to dissolve it, then to day by day combat it.

But pepsin must be activated. The usual method is an acid harmful to the teeth. So pepsin long seemed barred. Science has now overcome this trouble by discovering a harmless activating method. It is that method which makes possible this efficient film combatant.

You can prove the effects, and quickly. Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the slimy film. See how the teeth whiten—how they glisten—as the fixed film disappears.

Compare the results with your old methods. Learn what clean teeth mean. Then let your own mirror tell you what is best. This test is most important to you. Make it at once. Cut out the coupon now.

Pepsodent PAT. OFF. REG. U.S.

The New-Day Dentifrice

After convincing tests, it is now advised for daily use by leading dentists everywhere.

100,000 IN A. L. BY NEW YEAR'S, LOGAN'S AIM

State Commander Issues Proclamation to Be Read at All Post Meetings

Colonel Edward L. Logan today announced the first official slogan of the Massachusetts branch of the American Legion. It is "100,000 members by New Year's!"

His formal proclamation, as State commander, which is to be read at the next meeting of every post, is as follows:

"October 28, 1919.

"Dear Comrade:

"The above is our slogan. We are out to enroll 100,000 paid-up members by the first of the new year. At the present time, the State branch has 60,000 paid-up members in its ranks, the largest paid-up membership in the country. That means that we have a quota of 40,000 to obtain in two months, or 20,000 a month.

"Our recent membership drive was crowned with success. Your splendid co-operation and earnest effort helped to make it so. To attain our goal of 100,000 on January 1, 1920, there must be a continuation of the good work already done—no faltering or lagging, but a steady drive forward.

MUST HOLD LEAD.

"Massachusetts has acquired remarkable prestige by reason of the splendid organization work accomplished in this, the formative period of the legion. We must not fall behind and thereby lose the prestige and reputation already gained. Massachusetts must always lead.

"It should be borne in mind that November 11, American Legion Day, has been set as the time limit for charter members. All persons enrolling and becoming paid-up members on or before that date will automatically become charter members, and all posts receiving their charters on or before that date will be known as charter posts.

TO RAISE INITIATION FEES.

"Many posts have determined to raise the initiation fee, and this fact should be communicated to all prospective members. It will serve as an added incentive to many ex-service persons eligible to affiliate themselves with the legion, to join before November 11. By so doing they will have the equal rights with the present members, as charter members, and will be able to join the legion at a lower initiation fee than if they enrolled after November 11. This fact should be given the widest possible publicity, and all ex-service persons are strongly urged to join now if they wish to become charter members of the American Legion.

"A charter membership is a thing that is treasured and regarded with special pride by the members of any organization. It signifies that the holder was in at the beginning, was one of the prime movers in the formative period, and that it was through his efforts and spirit, combined with that of other charter members, that the organization survived the formative period and thereafter.

CITES G. A. R. EXAMPLE.

"How these Grand Army veterans cherish their charter membership. And well they might, for it typified that they were the pioneers of that wonderful organization. It showed they had the right spirit, grasped the full and significant meaning of the organization they were endeavoring to form, and labored hard and unceasingly to put it on a firm foundation. How well they succeeded, we all know only too well.

"In order to validate our slogan of 100,000 members by January 1st,' and not only reach this figure, but to top it by a generous and appreciable margin, the State commander earnestly asks all posts to do their utmost to increase their membership. Praltically every service man will join the Legion; the sooner they join, the better, not only for Massachusetts but for themselves. There are approximately 225,000 persons in Massachusetts eligible to become members of the Legion; only 60,000, or one-quarter have enrolled thus far. There is still a very large number outside the ranks. We want the membership of every one of them. Won't you go out and get them?

(Signed) "EDWARD L. LOGAN,
"State Commander."

Guard Saves Prince From Ardent Kiss by Admirer

By International News Service.

Montreal, Oct. 29.—A brawny Scotch Highland guard saved Edward, Prince of Wales, from being soundly kissed by an ardent feminine admirer at a military ball here. A young woman broke through the prince's encircling guard and was just about to embrace him when she was seized by the brawny guard and hurried away.

The prince was the central figure at the ball, which was the greatest social event Montreal has seen in generations, and 1,100 invited guests from all over the Dominion were present. The prince upset the arrangements by dancing with whom he pleased rather than with the partners his aides had selected for him.

Washington, Oct. 29.—Use of the red flag as a means of demonstration in parades or meetings will be deemed evidence of anarchistic inclinations and will be punishable by a fine of $10,000 or one year in prison, or both, if a bill introduced in the House by Representative Smith, chairman of the Committee on Labor, becomes a law.

REVEALS SECRET CLEW TO SLAYER OF MRS. BROWN

Rockland Woman Tells of Seeing Man Who Took Victim Away in Auto

Rockland, Me., Oct. 29.—A terrible secret carried for no ostensible reason during nine long months may lead to a solution of the mystery attendant upon the brutal murder on the night of December 30 last of Mrs. Caroline Weil Brown, a member of the Silent Sisters, Rockland's leading social organization.

This evidence, secured by Medical Examiner George L. Crockett of Thomaston, has been considered by the County Attorney and by Daniel T. Green, superintendent of the Pinkerton Detective Agency, and is regarded as highly favorable to the prosecution of a man who had been previously suspected and eliminated from consideration.

The evidence offered by Mrs. William Butler of No. 3 Maverick street substantiates a theory once discarded by the investigators that Mrs. Brown had been taken for an automobile ride and then slain. Mrs. Butler saw Mrs. Brown enter the automobile with a man well known in this town on the night of the murder.

SLEDGE STAKE STOLEN.

She entered the machine almost in front of the postoffice in Limerock street. Whither she was driven is more or less a mystery. One outstanding fact is that on the night Mrs. Brown was murdered a sledge standing outside the postoffice had stolen from it a sledge stake. And it was with this sledge stake that Mrs. Brown was slain.

Mrs. Butler related her story to Dr. Crockett in a purely accidental way. She described how she and Mrs. Stella Hathaway were together in Main street, opposite the Rockland Hotel, about 9:30 on the night of December 30.

They saw Mrs. Brown leave the hotel and cross the street, proceed to Limerock street and turn toward her home. She walked slowly along, and at a point near the Postoffice stopped when a man seated in an automobile standing on the opposite side of the street spoke to her.

SAW AUTO DRIVER.

There was some talk regarding a ride home and then Mrs. Brown crossed to the car, went around in front of its lights, it being a left drive car, and entered it. The machine drove off after Mrs. Butler and Mrs. Hathaway had gone by it and seen the features of the man who was then sitting with Mrs. Brown.

That was the last time Mrs. Brown was seen alive by anybody, aside from her slayer. It was then just before 10 o'clock. The following morning her lifeless body, horribly bruised and gashed, was found about 300 yards farther up on Limerock street in a field and about fifty feet from the sidewalk.

Mrs. Butler has told her story to the county attorney as well as to Sheriff Hobbs. Superintendent Green has also heard it, and as a result of the deductions by the three it is believed that an arrest may be made in a comparatively short time.

British Inventor of Auto Shoes First Named Them "Aerial" Tubes

That pneumatic tires came near to having another name has been discovered by the United States Tire Company in delving into the early history of automobile tires.

The inventor of the pneumatic tires was R. W. Thompson, an Englishman, who called them "aerial" tires, probably because they were filled with air. Thompson got his patents in 184[illegible], but the invention fell into oblivion until the late eighties, when Dr. Dunlop of [illegible] brought out his first "pneumatics."

Templar Sportettes Win Favor Through Smart Lines

Frederick J. Caldwell, local Mercer and Templar distributor, has received a shipment of the Templar Sportettes which have attracted marked attention and their reception is very pleasing to both Mr. Caldwell and the factory. There is something distinctive about this "sporty" four-passenger car that attracts the eye immediately. The body lines are just enough different and the general contour of the car from top to mud guards is one of refinement of detail seldom found in a car of its class.

"When it comes to actual performance," says Mr. Caldwell, "the Templar is a marvel and will astonish those who are not familiar with what it can do on hills and on gasoline mileage. It has a very powerful motor of the overhead valve type which has demonstrated also that it is very economical.

"The recent economy run made in the West was very remarkable and actual operation in this territory has proven that the Templar is not a big 'gas eater.'"

WAIT
for the Revolutionary Six

ONCE again we council you to wait.

Price, Performance, Economies and Fine Appearance will well justify a little more patience.

At the offices of the Corporation, a great flood of inquiries comes in on the tide of every mail. At the great Elizabeth, N. J. plant, every nerve is being strained to hasten the Day of Big Production—400 to 500 Sixes, day after day.

By this time, all America is realizing that the Six is not merely the most remarkable car of the year, but one of the few Epoch-Making Cars of Automobile History.

Automobile men on all sides are complimenting us for our American spirit in overcoming the many obstacles, which, for years, had made the coming of such a car impossible.

Today the Six is fully developed. Each of the revolutionary forward steps has justified itself during two years of testing, over asphalt and mud, levels and hills, smooth roads and ruts—200,000 miles of it.

Each of the new principles has won the approval of prominent members of the Society of Automotive Engineers. One of them, the new three point Cantilever Spring Suspension, accomplishes a remarkable result—in effect adding a good 30 inches to the 112 inch wheel-base and giving this light economic car (approximately 2,100 pounds) all the road luxury of those ponderous extravagant palaces of 142 inch base. The chassis also is radically simple—eliminating costly material and greatly expediting quantity production.

A car of handsome appearance, that gets you about as only a Six can—averaging 17 to 20 miles per gallon of gasoline throughout the tests.

The People's Six—Economic to Buy—Economic to Keep.

Shortly, from Elizabeth, the base of production, great train loads of Sixes will be shipping to the four points of the compass.

And at the other extensive plants of the Willys Corporation—at Toledo, O., Syracuse and Poughkeepsie, N. Y., production of the Auto-Lite, New Process Gears and Willys Light will go on in the never-yet-achieved effort to keep pace with increasing demand. To date over a million and a half Auto-Lite sets have been produced and marketed—New Process Gears are being produced for over 2,000 automotive vehicles per day—the Willys Light is just coming into production, and, in one single month, has booked orders for 20,000 sets.

Each of these industries is a source of supply for the new Six—in fact, practically every item of the new car, from raw material to finished product, is produced by the Willys Corporation, or by controlled and closely allied industries.

Anyone desiring further information about the plans and car program of the Willys Corporation should write for our booklet.

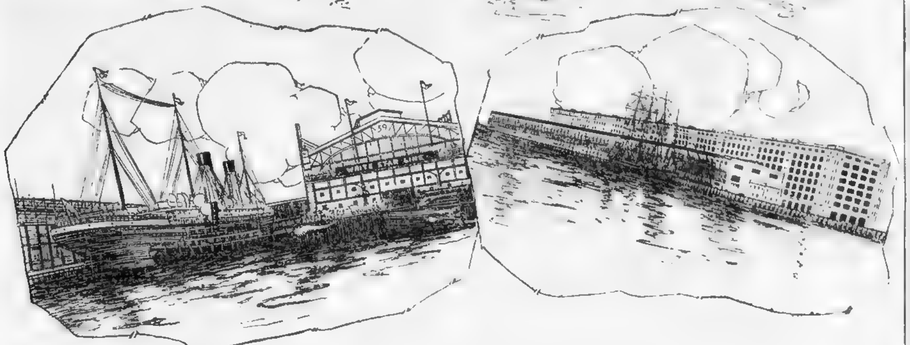
BOSTON THE SECOND PORT IN THE UNITED STATES.



What Mr. Newcomer, here looking for a new location for his business, writes his partner about Boston's harbor facilities

Dear Randall

As you know, railroad facilities are taxed to the utmost by the huge freight tonnage that is being dumped on them. We've lost a lot of business by our competitors having the jump on us with their shipments by water, and there's economy in water shipments, too

So I've started my investigations here by looking into Boston's port facilities. Here's what I've learned:

Boston Harbor has all the finest facilities for unloading and loading at the same time FORTY-ONE big ocean-going steamships. As an importing seaport, Boston ranks second among American cities. She has one of the finest natural harbors in the world, and lies 180 miles nearer than New York to the great western European ports.

Over forty miles of waterfront equipped with 146 wharves and docks, including the great Army Supply Base in South Boston and the magnificent new Commonwealth Pier, 1,200 feet long and accommodating five 600-foot ships at one time; the largest drydock in the country and numerous repair plants under construction; a broad, deep harbor—that's what Boston offers us as a port, Randall!

Boston's foreign trade is steadily growing. For the year 1918 it amounted to $517,384,342, an increase of over $79,000,000 over the year before. Twenty-two foreign steamship lines and ten coastwise lines dock in Boston, and it's the natural outlet not only of the immensely rich New England manufacturing region, but for much of the Northwestern and Western export trade.

I'm convinced, Randall, that no city offers a manufacturer better port facilities than Boston.

Your partner

COLGATE TEAM GIVEN LONG, HARD SCRIMMAGE

Hamilton, N. Y., Oct. 29.—The coaches sent the team through a long, hard period of scrimmaging, with all the players taking part with the exception of Anderson, Gillo and Laird, who are still incapacitated from the effects of injuries received in the Princeton game.

Much time was spent in the running back of punts by the backfield men and the covering of punts by the ends. In both of these phases of the play the team showed some weakness of the Saturday contest.

The game with Dartmouth is realized by coaches, students and all other maroon supporters to be largely decisive in the race of the Eastern college championship, which at present looms large in the Colgate path. The team will leave Hamilton tomorrow, so that practice may be held on Friday in some town near Hanover and that the team may be in condition on Saturday and not tired because of the effects of the trip.

VETERANS BACK IN LINE-UP AT BROWN

Providence, R. I., Oct. 29.—Brown had two first string teams on the field for practice, a number of veterans who have been out with injuries returning. Chief among them was Havens, center, who had been out since the Colgate game with an injured [illegible].

JOE TIPLITZ'S LEFT LEAD DEFEATS CHARLEY PARKER

By JACK CONWAY.

Joe Tiplitz proved once more that a boxer with a good left hand can beat a fighter with a right hand haymaker when he bested Charley Parker in their twelve round bout at Mechanics Building under the direction of the Ar[illegible] A. A.

The Philadelphian started the tussle with [illegible] He only used [illegible] fit when in the clinches and then only to push his opponent around. But he didn't need it. Tiplitz's left hook to the head and body was enough to offset Parker's right hand swish.

THERE are two kinds of coal.
The kind you want and the kind the dealer hasn't got.

[illegible] Nature's gift [illegible]

COAL is known as black diamonds. If coal gets much dearer diamonds will be called white coal. It is dug out of the earth by miners with large manicuring sets. The place where they get coal is called a coal pocket.

After the coal is mined, papa digs down into his coat pocket. The miners are going on a strike soon which will make papa laugh like an oat salesman in Detroit.

M[illegible] always [illegible] miners are going back to work.

A TON of coal costs twelve dollars. This is because the dollar is growing smaller. So is the ton.

EVERYTHING is shrinking like a woolen sock in an army laundry. The restaurants give you one oyster on six half-shells.

The man who asks for two lumps of sugar gets the second lump on his bean.

Two fingers of the best prune-turpentine whiskey [illegible] sixty cents a copy with an added expense of six bits for a stomach pump.

You can get good liquor on a physician's prescription, but most doctors are selfish. You will understand this better when you get older.

COAL is what makes the steam radiator shake so merrily. Sometimes it shakes because it's shivering. The janitor takes a coalful of shovel and tickles the furnace with it. The steam starts limping through the radiator and all the roaches crawl out into the backyard to get warm. There is only one man who has a softer job than a janitor, and that is a war correspondent with an army of conscientious objectors.

WHEN coal is ignited it burns very rapidly [illegible] money the dealer doesn't give you coal. [illegible] nice pieces of slate just like the kind you write on with [illegible] A ton like that will last many Winters. Many Winters [illegible]

THE coal situation is a tonic that will grow white hair overnight. Every time papa thinks about it, he cuts out a new regiment of paper dolls.

THAT is all about coal, children. Papa will [illegible] while you look at the pretty pictures. And remember that [illegible] work must be done in red ink.

He was possessed of a self confidence wholly removed from conceit which had spared [illegible] the knowledge of even a[illegible] company [illegible] coming and as he now realized the passing of [illegible] age. She shook her head.

"To tell you the truth," she said, "I [illegible] rather [illegible] seem to bring it into [illegible] How am I to get to him? I [illegible] suppose he has [illegible] a girl. He is [illegible] splendidly faithful to the ideas of his earlier days. I do not [illegible] has moved a step out of [illegible] groove. He is looking at the same things in the same way. Am I to go to him as a Magdalen, as a penitent? Honestly, [illegible] did I [illegible] say the last [illegible]."

Their eyes met, and they both [illegible].

"[illegible] is very difficult," he admitted, "[illegible] as one to [illegible] common a matter of importance with a person of another world. Why do you [illegible]?"

"Because," she replied, "he is, after all, my father, because I know that the pain and rage which he felt when he left England are there today, and I would like so much to make him see that they have not been wasted. I want him to realize that my life has been made not a [illegible]."

Is Unchanged

"I should find out indirectly if I were you how he is feeling," the Marquis advised. "I rather agree with you that you will find him unchanged. His fierce opposition to my reasonable legal movements against him give one that impression."

"I shall probably be sorry I went," she admitted, "but it seems to me that it is one of those things which must be done. Let us talk of something else. Tell me how you have spent the week."

"I [illegible] I have improved [illegible] acquaintance with the American David Thain, of whom I have already spoken to you," he told her.

"And your great financial scheme?"

"It promises well. Of course, if it is entirely successful it will be like starting life all over again."

"There is a certain amount of risk, I suppose?" she asked a little anxiously.

The Marquis waved his hand.

"In this affair quite negligible," he declared.

"It would make you very happy, of course, to free the estates," she ruminated.

The Marquis for a moment revealed a side of himself which always made Marcia feel almost maternal toward him.

"It would give me very great pleasure also," he confessed, "to point out to my solicitors—to Mr. Wadham, Junior, especially—that the task which they have left uncompleted for some twenty five years I have myself undertaken successfully."

"[illegible] Mr. Thain must be rather interesting," Marcia said musingly. "Could you describe him?"

It was at this precise moment that the Marquis raised his head and discovered that David Thain was being shown by an obsequious maitre d'hotel to the table adjoining their own.

In the case of almost any other of his acquaintances, the Marquis's course of action would have been entirely simple. David, however, complicated things. With the naive courtesy of his American bringing up, he no sooner recognized the Marquis than he approached the [illegible] Marquis [illegible] between [illegible]

"Why such misanthropy?" she asked.

"It is my own bad manners," he explained. "I accepted an invitation for this evening, and found at the last moment so much work that I was obliged to send an excuse."

"You carry your work about with you, then."

"Not always, I hope," he replied, "only I am just now clearing out a great many of my interests in America and [illegible] is sufficient to keep me busy."

He passed on with a little bow and took his place at the table which the maitre d'hotel had indicated. The Marquis, to whom his coming had been without any real significance, continued his conversation with Marcia until he found to his surprise that she was giving him less than her whole attention.

"What do you think of our hero of finance?" he enquired, a little coldly.

"He seems very much as you described him," Marcia answered. "To tell you the truth, his sudden appearance just as we were talking about him rather took my breath away."

"It was a coincidence, without a doubt," the Marquis acknowledged.

Her eyes wandered towards the man who had given his brief order for dinner and whose whole attention now seemed absorbed by the newspaper which he was reading.

"Is Mr. Thain [illegible] not who [illegible] a wonderful speculation?" she asked a little abruptly.

"That is [illegible]," the Marquis admitted. "I [illegible] always myself, however [illegible] disposed towards [illegible]."

Marcia suddenly withdrew her glance, laughed softly to herself and sipped her wine.

Society Ladies Adopt New Hair Curling Method

Since the introduction of liquid silmerine in this country, it has become quite "the proper thing" among society women, who have readily adopted it in place of the destructive curling iron. The waves and curls acquired by the new method are far more natural in appearance, and the hair is of course glossier and prettier than could be if the life were cooked out of it.

The liquid is pleasant to use, being neither greasy nor sticky. It is a simple thing to apply with a clean tooth brush at night when the hair is down. The lovely wavy effect in evidence in the morning is all that one could wish for. It costs little to use liquid silmerine, as a few ounces from the druggist will keep the hair in curl for weeks.—Advertisement

I got up and started to make my way out of the box and down to the floor and just as I got to the soft green taffeta portieres there stood Valerie Cosby, with my Jim lurking in the shadows behind her.

"[illegible] away unless we [illegible]," she said in her very [illegible] voice. "Though, of course, [illegible] and wife to be found [illegible] the same cozy corner at a ball [illegible] cause a terrible uproar in society."

Then my little lilac costume seemed shabbier than ever. And though Tom Mason's hand on my arm steadied me—the hand was trembling.

"I'll have a gorgeous gown for your real party, but first the man who's going to give it to me must join me in giving you a party. Isn't that so, Jimmie?" I asked in my most proprietary tone as well as my most naive one.

"Right," said Jim, his eyes on Valerie Cosby.

"Thursday?" I persisted. "Dinner and theatre?"

That would give me time to go to the smartest place in town and order a gown at which no one could sneer. I was through being saving. It didn't pay.

The Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND

Copyright, 1919, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.

WHEN he can manage to stir up a little jealousy between two women, every man flatters himself that he is a perfect human "Plume."

According to the scriptures, the Lord made women—but no man every married one of them without trying to improve on heaven's handiwork by remodelling her.

Trying to fascinate a man by talking more brilliantly than he can is about as successful as walking through the streets of Paris waving a German flag.

Of course, no girl wants to be anything but good and noble and high-souled, and all that—but there are times when she gets painfully tired of holding her halo on straight with one hand, while she waits for some man to come along and hold the other hand.

After a woman tips the scales at a hundred and forty, most of her spare time is spent in trying to spot women who are stouter than she is.

It isn't for deceiving her with pleasant little lies, but for getting tired of lying, and undeceiving her with the horrid truth, that a woman never forgives a man.

After marriage the flower which a man plucked from "the rosebud garden of girls" is so apt to turn into a stodgy vegetable.

It isn't a man's faults that drive a woman to nervous prostration; it's the unholy pride with which he is forever bragging about them—when he isn't lying about them.

There are ever so many cures for love—but time, marriage and another love are the only SURE ones!

For the Small Boy

By Rita Stuyvesant

THE small boy has not been neglected this season in the way of fashionable attire, for designers have created the most adorable clothes for him, with no hint of femininity in their smartness. For school, play and "Sunday best" there are suits sure to please the taste of the little man and his mother.

Among the tub suits yellow and white is enjoying quite a popularity with the boy of four years. Striped crepe is responsible for some cunning one-piece suits that will stand the frequent launderings that rough and ready play requires. And to save labor no ironing is necessary.

Galatea in dark blue, brown and taupe makes an attractive suit for the school days. For the older boy, the two-piece model is chosen, consisting of bloomer pants and Norfolk jacket. A stiff, white Buster Brown collar and tie lend dignity to his eight or ten years.

Cool days demand something warmer, and the little man of the family will feel both well dressed and comfortable in a suit of syrup-brown corduroy and white repp. Straight knickers are favored, with smoked pearl buttons on either side at the knees and also around the belt.

Attached to these warm "panties" is a cunning blouse, quaintly charming in its frilled freshness. A deep round collar is ruffled and cuffed too, reminiscent of the style of toward a century ago, when daddy was a boy.

A picturesque suit for party wear is of black velvet with soft white wash silk. A three-piece model is used for this quaint suit. Straight knickers, trimmed with white pearl buttons, are completed by a demure jacket, cut off above the waistline, swinging open to reveal its lovely blouse beneath. Small pleated ruffles outline the collar, worn outside the velvet jacket.

Household Suggestions

Before lighting a fire try putting the wood, not crosswise, but sloping from the sides of the grate to the centre. This forms a funnel for a free passage of air and, as the flame travels up the stick more quickly than it does across, fewer pieces are required, and the fire burns up more brightly and in shorter time.

* * *

To avoid danger in tinned fruits, after opening the tin pour all the liquid into a saucepan and add a tablespoonwul of caster sugar. Bring to the boil; then put in the fruit and let it get cold in the syrup. It is then ready for use. By this process the danger of any tin flavor, etc., is destroyed, and it does not spoil the taste of the fruit.

* * *

To remove varnish stains on cloth first wet the spots with alcohol two or three times, then rub with a clean cloth. If the color is injured sponge afterwards with chloroform to restore it, unless the color is blue, in which case vinegar should be used instead.

* * *

An excellent paste is obtained from a good sized Spanish onion. After being boiled a short time the onion will yield, on being pressed, quite a large quantity of very adhesive fluid. This can be used for pasting paper on tin or zinc, or even glass.

* * *

When washing blankets use plenty of soft water and soap that has no resin in it. Resin hardens the fibres of woolen goods and should never be used. The water in which they are scalded should be made quite blue with indigo. Wash only on a bright, breezy day, so that they will dry quickly.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callus. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callus right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring color, lustre and youthfulness to hair when faded, streaked or gray.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

STEEL AND OIL SHARES ARE HIGHEST

Motor Issues React as a Class During Forenoon Trading

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, oils and steels approximating their best prices, while motors were above the low level touched in a morning reaction. General Motors was strong at the start, selling as high as 390⅝, its highest record price. It was down to 382 during the morning. Republic Steel had advanced 7⅝ to 125⅝ at its record highest. Texas Co. was the feature among oils, advancing 11 to 322, a highest record.

Among stocks to show the largest gains at noon were American International, Sumatra, Bethlehem B, Crucible, Chandler, Lackawanna Steel, Mexican Petroleum and Otis Elevator. They were up from two to eight points.

Studebaker was weak, being off more than two points at the end of the morning. Pierce-Arrow also showed a loss. Hide & Leather preferred also was in the recessional list, which was brief.

Call money opened at 9 per cent. The stock market was active, first hour transactions totalling about 400,000 shares.

TRADING BEGAN WITH GAINS.

Not only were gains made by almost all stocks at the opening, but they were substantial on the average. Steels were the early leaders, and Republic the feature of this group during the first half-hour, it advancing more than six points to a new highest record price. A number of specialties figured in the advance. Worthington Pump soon showing twelve points gain. General Motors surpassed its previous record high. Oil, equipment, sugar, leather, shipping and rubber issues all moved upward. American Sugar sold at its 1919 highest with the first hour. Rails were quiet, but ruled a shade higher, while coppers were turgid as a class and had a downward trend. The result of the advance was realization selling, which diminished gains somewhat towards the end of an hour.

HIGH MONEY AIDS BEARS.

The altitude attained again yesterday by the call rate caused further liquidation by small operators and encouraged bears to extend short commitments. They are counting on strike developments within a few days which will have strong reactionary influence. The latest earnings statement by the Steel Corporation contributed to the advance of steels in general. Companies in this branch of industry are regarded as certain to make a great deal of money for a long time to come. This confidence is the uplifting force under oil, motor, sugar, rubber and several other classes of stocks. Coppers are neglected because of the big metal surplus and the probability that it will be many months before consumption can use up the stock now on hand and the additions resulting from continued operation of mines. The outlook for railroads is so uncertain that there is little incentive to speculate in their securities.

Wall Street Briefs

President John N. Willys, of the Willys Corporation, states that earnings at present are running at the rate of approximately $5,000,000 per annum.

American Hide & Leather's third quarter surplus after charges and Federal taxes amounts to $1,212,416 and is equal to $9.33 a share on preferred, against $1,093,780 or $8.40 a share in the preceding quarter and $648,829, or $4.99 a share in the Sept. 1918 quarter.

For the three months ended Sept. 30, 1919, the J. I. Case Plow Works Co. reports business of $4,128,029 against $2,104,574 for the corresponding period of 1918.

ACTIVE ISSUES ADVANCE IN BOSTON

Ventura, Eastern Steamship and Sugars Are Morning Features

After a firm opening prices remained strong during the morning in Boston, almost all active issues joining in the advance. Ventura was a feature and sold at its highest record price. Eastern Steamship common, one of the most active issues in the forenoon, reached its former record high. Eastern Steamship preferred was up nearly five points at its highest.

Sugars were strong in this market, Punta Alegre advancing more than one, and American Sugar more than five points. Packing issues were stronger than for several days, Libby and Swift & Co. leading this department in gains.

There was less activity than usual in auto accessory shares, most of the trading in this group being in Parish & Bingham and Gray & Davis. They sold fractionally higher. This was true of Elder and National Leather as well.

Among issues to advance a point or more before noon were United Fruit and U. S. Smelting. Smaller gains were made by New Haven, Stewart and United Shoe. Carson Hill "notes" were traded in for the first time.

Stocks to decline from fractions to a point included Boston & Maine, Copper Range, East Butte, Quincy, International Products preferred, Bigheart and North Butte.

Edison was less conspicuous than yesterday. It opened two points lower, but recovered the loss in the second hour.

Copper Market Stagnant

The copper market is said to be stagnant at present although metal has been offered recently at less than 22 cents a pound. Consumers are showing no intention of stocking up at lowest prices quoted. They believe that continued increase of the copper surplus and absence of foreign buying must cause a price slump before long.

Movement of Wheat

Wheat exports up to July 1, 1919, totalled 56,000,000 bushels, compared with 30,000,000 for the first half of 1918. During the first six months of this year 65,000,000 more bushels were moved to the seaboard.

Vast Auto Production

It is estimated that the General Motors Corporation will manufacture 600,000 motor vehicles this year and that they will consume 1,000,000 gallons of gasoline a day, or approximately 250,000,000 gallons a year.

"Peace Finance" Articles

If enough subscribers at $1.50 a copy can be obtained the "Peace Finance" articles printed in the Boston News Bureau will be published in book form. They are worth reading. Written by C. W. Barron, they are as interesting post-bellum literature as has appeared. The author is as well posted on world finance as any editor in this country and tells why the cost of living has been inflated in a lucid way. It would be good for this country if everyone within it could read the information about Marxian socialism and Bolshevism presented by Mr. Barron with a "punch."

Why does Fatima outsell all straight Turkish cigarettes in most of the big hotels and clubs?

Because straight Turkish cigarettes contain too much Turkish and because Fatima contains "just enough" Turkish.

A Step Toward National Budget Reform at Last

The bill which has just passed the House to create a Federal budget system and an independent auditing system provides a Bureau of the Budget in the office of the President, to collate the government's fiscal needs and transmit them in understandable form to the Congress.

It also provides for the creation of the independent office of the Comptroller-General, in which shall be centralized all power of audit of government accounts.

It makes no change in the methods by which the Congress shall act on the budget when received. The legislative body may increase or reduce the executive estimates, and log-roll as of yore. But the people, for the first time, will have a chance to watch the national financing with some hope of keeping track of the details.

They may, therefore, create an intelligent demand for true economy.

How badly this is needed, a few figures will show.

Everywhere the cost of government is increasing more rapidly than population or wealth.

In New York State, for example, the cost of government in thirty years has increased 600 per cent., while the assessed valuation has increased only 300 per cent. and the population only a little over 50 per cent.

As for the nation, in the forty-year period from 1877 to 1917, which precedes our great war outlays, the increase in population was approximately 100 per cent.; in wealth was, let us estimate, about 300 per cent., but in cost of government it was MORE THAN 500 PER CENT.

On top of this steady advance in the tax rate over both the birth rate and the wealth rate now comes the staggering burden of our thirty billion dollar war debt, which will press upon us for perhaps a generation.

Only by intelligent economy reduced from words to deeds can we hope to bear up.

This budget and auditing bill, to be sure, is only a small beginning toward the economies we shall require if we are to avoid national bankruptcy.

But it IS a beginning, and the pressure which has produced it can achieve more.

An Infant Industry Which Truly Needs Protection

It was officially reported on March 1 last that Germany had on hand, awaiting export, 45,000 tons of dyestuffs, and was producing more at the rate of 1,000 tons a month. This surplus was almost double the total annual production of American dyes during the year 1918, and was FIFTEEN TIMES the American dye product of 1914.

Even that does not tell the whole story. For in 1914 all of America's home-made dyes, amounting to a little more than 3,000 tons, were manufactured from imported intermediates—chiefly from Germany.

Last year, however, American dyemakers not only produced more than 28,000 tons of dyes every bit as good as the best dyes Germany ever exported, but also more than 177,000 tons of intermediates.

The United States is now freed from dependence upon the outside world for its dyestuffs, and it should remain free.

Never again should we subject our great textile industry and the consumers of its products to the embarrassment which befell them when the recent war cut them off from the source of supply.

That Germany will endeavor to regain control of the American dye market is to be expected. She will act promptly after the ratification of peace, and will be aided by the low value of her coinage standard, the mark, now worth around four cents instead of twenty-five.

Protection to this new home industry is required not only because of its direct importance in times of peace, but also because high explosives are made from the same raw materials as dyes, and an established dye industry will form an invaluable reserve in the event of another war.

It should be complete protection.

The Congress will be expected to enact laws to forbid any dumping of German or other foreign dyes upon these shores, no matter what the price.

An anti-dumping bill is pending, drafted by Chairman Fordney of the House Ways and Means Committee, assisted by experts of the Treasury Department. Its essential feature is contained in the following provision:

> Whenever merchandise is exported to the United States of the class or kind provided for in this act, and the sales price is less than the foreign home value, or in the absence of such value is less than the value to countries other than the United States, or in the absence of such value is less than the cost of production, there should be levied and collected, in addition to the duties on imported merchandise prescribed by existing laws, a special duty in an amount equal to the difference between the sales price and the foreign home value or the value to countries other than the United States or the cost of production, as the case may be.

Another provision imposes a penalty of $5,000, or imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both, upon any importer who gives or receives a rebate or concession from the sales price without notifying the collector, or who fails or refuses to submit his accounts to proper authority.

These, it is obvious, are drastic requirements, but the situation to be met is perilous and not to be safeguarded by half measures.

For upward of a year and a half the energy of America has largely been expended in doing things for other people.

It is time for our government to begin to legislate for the benefit of the American people.

This Fordney bill is a practical beginning toward making law for the benefit of American industry and American welfare.

Letters to the Editor

Prisoners at Devens

Editor Boston American:

The prisoners of Cantonment Guard House, Camp Devens, have requested me to ask you if you would please oblige them by publishing this little article in your paper.

Some time ago one of the Boston papers published an article, referring to these men as hardened criminals and murderers. I myself have reviewed the cases of each man who came from Fort Jay, Governor's Island. The total number of general prisoners is 100. Two-thirds of these men have served in France, in most of the hardest fighting. They are all carrying from one to three wounds. The sentences now vary from three to seven months. These men are not only carrying wounds they received in battle, but are carrying some that disgrace the U. S. A., received at the hands of Hard Boiled Smith and his confederates. All of these men were tried and sentenced after the armistice was signed. This is how some of the sentences read before they were reduced at Washington: Ninety-nine years for allowing a prisoner to escape; ninety-nine years for impersonating an officer; ninety-nine years for fifteen days' A. W. O. L., and fifty years for striking a non-commissioned officer. There is one or two men who are in for petty larceny; one colored man for cutting another, and another for shooting. The main reason for writing this is to impress on the minds of the public that they are not a hardened bunch of criminals, but ordinary soldiers. They are under an officer who, if he isn't related to Hard Boiled Smith, he wants to make himself second. He speaks two languages, English and profane. The latter is used frequently toward the prisoners.

EARL KINGDON.

Lowell.

Plea for the Common

Editor Boston American:

I agree with you in all that you said about the Common, Mrs. James B. Brown.

In my opinion if there were more people with your spirit this town would be better off. Business and Money is the topic of the day. They never think that Boston is being visited by people from other places every day and that they always remark that Boston has a great distinction in having in its business district a park. Again, just think of the mothers and babies that depended on the Common for their life during that hot spell last Summer and will also need it again next Summer, with the population increasing every day. The rich people of the city have many ways of keeping cool, with their extensive houses, while the poor of the West End have to be content with stuffy tenements. When the West End people hold their mass meeting I will certainly attend and offer my protests against any part of the Common being taken for traffic. Concerning automobiles, I quite agree with you. Some machines are standing, taking up space for fully three hours and even longer. Why? Because that means business.

KITTY JOHNSON.

Milk and the Babies

Editor Boston American:

As an American housewife, I would like to say it is about time something was done about the milk question. The cry is "feed the babies on milk and give them plenty of it," and I for one don't see how we mothers with little children can do so if the price keeps on going up.

There is no need of it. If you send investigators into the country towns of New Hampshire you will find many a farmer throwing away gallons of milk every day because the big milk producers are crying surplus of milk to the farmers and won't buy. Then when you get down to Boston and vicinity they claim one reason for the high prices is the shortage. I know this for a fact, also that they are selling their milk for eight cents the quart and sixty-five cents the can, even with the other expenses. I can't see any reason for us paying $1.14 the can—forty-nine cents over what the farmer gets.

I say, for one, that we won't have better babies as long as the price of milk soars.

MRS. O. E.

Nahant.

A Direct Route

The railway line which connects Petrograd with Moscow rivals a Roman road for straightness. It wase first projected in the middle of the last century, and the then Czar was asked to state his wishes as to the course the railway should take. In reply he drew a perfectly straight line between his two capitals, and the engineers proceeded accordingly, although many of the natural difficulties to be overcome were great, and it would have been far less costly to have allowed some deviations. As it is, it is probably the longest straight railway line in the world.

ADVICE TO BASHFUL BOYS AND GIRLS

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

WHY be bashful? A quarter at least of the letters I receive are from girls and boys who are suffering from this affliction and have failed in their efforts to overcome it.

A diffident girl has written me of the woes she endures from this psychological affection, which is just as much of a handicap as a physical difficulty.

"I am going on twenty," she writes, "and I have suffered all my life from shyness. I am not naturally talkative, and if I do say anything it is sure to be wrong—just what I ought not to have said. I never seem able to express what I really feel or think. The pastor of our church says that he has never seen any one so bashful. You can readily see how hard it is for me to make friends. I am in all truth the village wallflower, and I do get so very lonesome. I often cry myself to sleep at night because of my inability to make or keep friends.

Seeking a Vocation

"I am planning to go to the city this Winter and be with relatives. Of course I shall have to work at anything I can get until I learn some especial thing. I think of a number of things I would like to do; and then I change my mind, and don't want to do any of them. Am I fickle, or what is the matter with me? I am so discontented and restless, and feel that I will never be happy. But I must earn my own living, and would like something with a future to it, as I shall never marry. Wallflowers don't. "PERPLEXED."

You are all at loose ends, ravelled out, so to speak, and need to knit yourself up again.

Self-Hypnotized

Let us take up your difficulties in order, and first consider your bashfulness. You sit down and write fluently to me, a stranger, but if you were to meet me and try to tell me what you have put into your letter, you would be awkward and tongue-tied and would blush and stammer, and end by saying something quite different from what you had intended. And all this not because there would be anything grim and severe in me. Heaven forbid! But because you have hypnotized yourself into the belief that that is the way you always conduct yourself with strangers. The mental picture of yourself that you present in your letter is the one you have held in your mind so long that you cannot help impressing it on others.

Don't shut your teeth and clench your hands and say: "I will not be bashful. I won't be stupid and awkward."

Keep Eyes on Picture

That will only make things worse. Just keep your eyes fixed on your charming mental picture of yourself and pay no attention to your behavior, even if for a time you seem twice as shy and tactless as you ever were before. Don't be discouraged if you do not succeed at once.

Now, for your vocation. How can you decide where you really want to fly until you have tried your wings a little? You must earn your living, and you are totally untrained. The first thing to do is to get some kind of training; that will give you a basis to start on. Get something to do, and do it well and thoroughly. You will thus gain the self-confidence which comes from the ability to earn money.

Then go ahead and fit yourself for that course, whatever it may be, keeping always in mind the goal before you, no matter how many lions seem to block the path.

And, by the way, your statement that wallflowers do not marry is wrong. I have seen some apparently incurable cases of wallfloweritis marry well and happily.

CHILDBIRTH MAKES WOMEN LIVE LONGER

After extensive research and study, scientists have discovered that the more children a woman has, the longer she will live. They have established beyond a reasonable doubt that nature compensates the mother in the same ratio that she performs her duty, with better health and longer life. This is their answer to the many arguments advanced by women averse to becoming mothers. It clears up a number of questions that have remained unanswered for a long time. You will want to read about it in the magazine section of next Sunday's

Flying Around the World
Prison for Blasphemy
To Make Yourself Perfect
Spare the Toy Balloon

Next July flying men start around the world for prizes totalling one million dollars. Five months allowed for the round trip.

Fifty or one hundred years from next July the charge for an air trip around the world will be less than the price of an Atlantic crossing now, and the time for the round trip less than a week.

A man is sentenced to two years in prison for blasphemy, which means saying impolite things on a religious subject. A considerable time should elapse between a round-the-world flying trip and a trial for blasphemy. They don't belong in the same age exactly.

It is difficult to understand the blasphemy charge and conviction on purely legal grounds. As Thomas Jefferson wrote to the Sultan of Morocco, this country has officially no religion—you may believe what you please.

But, as a matter of fact, the conviction for blasphemy is satisfactory to a majority of citizens. If you say anything unpleasant about Christianity, you hurt the feelings of many good citizens. It is a good idea to imprison those that wilfully hurt the feelings of others.

Out of Italy come great men and important announcements. One Italian, Gallileo, told the world about the construction of the heavens and the slight importance of our earth, which ceased to be the centre of creation after he had spoken.

Now comes the Italian professor, Maiorana, saying that Newton's law of gravitation is only partly true, subject to constant change and modification. He demonstrates that a piece of lead floating in mercury, the liquid metal, weighs less than when it isn't floating in mercury. If weight or mass varies then "directly as the mass, etc.," is subject to variation.

Professor Maiorana, to his own University, and others, had previously demonstrated that matter in motion weighs less than matter at rest, which is puzzling. These men have also come dangerously near to proving that there is actually no such thing as real motion.

Professor Maiorana, to his own satisfaction demonstrates that our solar system has existed for a period of time immensely longer than scientists had supposed. He has a new theory for spontaneous production of heat in stars, caused by power of gravitation in their inside strata. And without combination, according to his theory, the sun can continue to light and warm our space, for tens, perhaps hundreds of millions of years longer than had been hoped. This gives us opportunity for many incarnations on this globe, and time, perhaps, in which to become really civilized.

Professor Maiorana's theories may be discussed respectfully long after those that now smile ignorantly and skeptically, are dead and forgotten, science, so called, laughed at Gallileo, and power silenced him when he told what he had seen through his home made telescope about the rings of Saturn and the moons of outside planets. Now what he said is taught to children.

They disturbed an Oriental gentleman, "Oom the Omnipotent," said he was dishonest and imposed on ladies, some of them stylishly named, lured to his esoteric emporium.

The gentleman's honesty is not important, but it is interesting that man out of the East can persuade Americans to make themselves perfect by following these instructions:

"Stand on your right foot, close the left nostril with the forefinger of the right hand and pronounce the mysterious word 'Oom.'"

The most cruel thing you can do to a little boy is to stick a pin into his toy balloon. Mr. Bland, Republican Congressman from Indiana, should have known that and refrained from saying:

"If General Pershing didn't know more about disposition of sugar than he did about the front, it would be useless to ask him. I found him 200 miles from the front on July 19, 1918, when the battle of Chateau Thierry was at its height."

The heroism of General Pershing is the toy balloon of the American people. It is cruel to stick a pin in it. General Pershing in his photographs looks like a hero, in his interviews he talks like a hero, and Mr. Bland should let the country continue to believe he is a hero.

Mr. Bland is entitled to thanks, however, for talking plainly about the tendency of government to get rid of things that belong to the American people and that the American people need.

A while ago, the authorities were gaily selling twenty-two million pounds of sugar from army supplies for foreign use. A little later the same army authorities were calling for twelve million pounds of sugar for army use.

Now families with children are told they can have half a pound of sugar.

Write the next two lines yourself.
